A JESUS-CHRISTIAN ESSAY ON GOD, CIVILIZATION, AND MAN

CRISTO RAUL Y &S

The conclusion of this short essay on the relationship between God, Civilization, and Man maintains that the responsibility for the growth of civilization rests both with God and with Man. For, as we have already seen, it has been sufficiently demonstrated—and we have understood from A to Z—that the relationship between Man and God has its existential dimension in Civilization. God is who He is, and this dimension of His Personality is non-negotiable; one does not play games with God, nor does God submit to corruption by virtue of the kinship between the Creator and His Creation. The formation of the Divine Personality is complete. “I am God; I have been formed, and there will be no other after me,” He says of Himself. His Son affirms this Declaration of His Father, saying, “I am the One who was, the One who is.” God is the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow. The Son, the visible Incarnation of God, His Father—that very same Jesus, adorable in all His words and deeds, will be the same Jesus who will come on the clouds to judge the living and the dead. Yesterday He came with a redemptive mission, which we all know through the voice of His Bride, the Catholic Church; tomorrow He will come to preside over the Last Judgment; but that Jesus of yesterday is the same as the one who will be tomorrow. There is no deception, no lie. God in Him is Truth, Light, and Life; Jesus in God is Peace, Justice, and Health. Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow, and for Eternity, the God who said of Himself, “I am who I am,” will continue to be “the One who was, the One who is, the One who will be.” The Divine Personality is Perfect, Holy, Adorable, Immaculate; there is no deceit or lie in His Spirit, no “hidden god” who creates some for glory and others for hell, nor a god who demands Crime and Genocide as the price of admission to His Paradise. How could one even conceive of the existence of a Civilization built upon such a foundation! The Creation of Life in the image and likeness of the children of God has its Source in the Social Nature of the Creator Himself.

To be social, to have a social nature, implies the need for a society in which, in this case, the Creator and His Creation unite in body and spirit to give life to a civilization, in which both God and man assume responsibility and are involved in the growth of a universal civilization upon the foundation laid by its Founder.

Incarnated is the Knowledge of the Personality of God the Creator in His Son, who became Man so that through His Works and His Words we might come to know our Creator, the Founder of the Civilization for which we were created to live; from this we deduce the incorruptibility of the Son of Man, our Jesus Christ, God the Father’s boundless rejection of a society founded on the political right to corruption as the currency by which the citizen pays the ruler for his private service to the public body. We, made in God’s likeness, according to His Word: “Let us make Man in our Image and Likeness,” inherit from Jesus Christ the spirit of Justice, Truth, and Peace—the source of that Liberty, Fraternity, and Equality proclaimed in the Revolution, trampled underfoot by the world wars.

Our rejection of a society, government, and civilization established—as if by default—on the legality of corruption as something inherent to political power; our rejection is neither a political masquerade nor a lever with which to shift the universe of democracy, in order to elevate it to a constitutional dictatorship founded on an ideology whose essence boils down to becoming the owners and masters of the nations’ wealth. A reading of the Book of Universal History lays bare an irrefutable and all-powerful truth: All civilizations built upon the law of immunity from justice for the ruling family, class, or tribe—and this fact is indisputable—were born , grew, and died amid a bloody cataclysm, of which many peoples retain not even a faint memory; and those who do retain some memory have transformed it into mythologies and religions, in whose depths we discover some lost historical truth, the extent of which we know how much in the annals of Time.

The conclusion of the History of War among the nations of the Human Race is clear and profound: There is NO excuse, no justification, and no argument upon which to legitimize the immunity of a political class, a monarchical family, or a theocratic clan—an immunity through which the exception to the rule of universal equality of all men before the law comes to life.

The Law does not bow down before a servant or a son, nor before a brother or a wife—neither before a man nor before a woman. The Law is Almighty: “You eat, you die.”

If you transgress the Law, the judgment written against the crime committed falls upon the transgressor’s head; if committed with premeditation and malice aforethought, there is no room for mercy. This is the Discourse on the Law with which God opens His Book, the Manual of Jurisprudence upon which rests the Future of the Fullness of the nations of the Universe.

Every Intelligent Being understands that only on such a Universal Basis, and only on that Spiritual Foundation, can a Civilization grow into a free consciousness capable of overcoming all the problems that growth itself causes to emerge within the body of Society. As the social body grows in intelligence, new problems arise ; this is the law of Nature. To combat this reality by causing a stagnation of the nations’ intelligence—perpetuating solutions to past problems as the panacea for present ones—is to dig the grave into which the entire body of that society will ultimately collapse. To raise up and worship a phantom of the past, closing our eyes to the nature of the problems of the present, is to open the gates of the cemetery to the future. This is a lesson we must apply to prevent the past from freezing our response to the problems of our century, and to ensure the Future is not closed off from the need to face its own problems with its own eyes—the same spirit always, yet each scenario has its own dimensions. Although the horizon toward which the human race is heading is one and the same—the encounter with the Son of Man, whose hour no one knows—only God; those who prophesy its imminence are men without judgment , prophets in the image and likeness of that magician who sought to buy from Saint Peter the Power of God manifested in his Master.

The ghosts of the Past, driven by their inability to embrace a Future in which their answers have no place—just as the dead have no place among the living—seek to keep the Present locked within the walls of their —the cause of the ruin of freedoms in all the nations where they took root—and, seeking to break free from their coffins, they wish to reproduce in the world of the Present the world in which those ghosts once lived. The world of the Past, in which they lived, had three dimensions; our world has five dimensions: Space, Time, Matter, God, and Man.

Thus, the Lesson of Wisdom tells us that the Existence of a Civilization born with an Eternal Vocation can only undertake its Journey through Time based on a Universal Law whose Spirit has its Origin and Beginning in an incorruptible Law.

Like the Universe and Man, Civilization does not arise from Nothing. The discourse of the ghosts of the Past is written: “Life has its beginning in a law without a body; its origin is a chaos that mysteriously articulates itself to create perfect harmony; the universe emerges from absolute chaos to slowly but inexorably erect an absolutely marvelous edifice upon a field of blood.” This is the discourse of the ghosts of the Past. Such is the religion of the worshippers of the dead.

In contrast to the law of Good and Evil, the discourse of those of us who live is the opposite: “God creates the Universe and cultivates within His body the Tree of Life in His image and likeness.” The Word of God: “I Am the Vine, and My Father is the Vinedresser.” Word of the Son of God: “We are the vines that, nourished by the sap of Creative Wisdom, produce in abundance the wine of boundless Intelligence.”

That this Field of Cultivation of eternal life, in the image and likeness of the Life of its Creator, was attacked by Death is a story whose beginning dates back to days before our creation. The History of War on Earth tells the whole story. God’s Battle against Death involves us all, but, evidently, the one most deeply involved is God Himself, who raised His Voice before Eternity and into the Infinite, proclaiming His Victory over Death on the day He discovered the Science of the Creation of Immortal Life.

Marx died, Muhammad died, Luther died, Stalin died, Darwin died, Mao died, Einstein died. God lives! The Son of God lives! Man, made in the image and likeness of God, lives! Who will claim to be the Source of Thought for those of us who live? Will we link our Thought to the graves of the dead, or to that of the Living God? Will we waste our time going to drink the Water of Intelligence from the books of the dead, or will we quench our thirst at the Fountain of the One who is Omniscient, in whom all things are found, and whose Water never runs dry? No matter how much we may drink, how can we contain that ocean of Infinite Wisdom within this bucket that we are! “The Kingdom of Heaven belongs to the humble.” Has not that pride of those who believe themselves to be wise been—and continues to be—the cause of all the evils of this world? Hence, since Jesus Christ is the Living Spring from which our Intelligence draws its nourishment, and since Thought is the living expression of Man created in His image and likeness, our Concept of the elements of Civilization is “Jesu-Christian.”

The Adventure of Immortality begins for us on Earth; it is not born in our hearts and minds according to that “default” law to which Corruption clings, mocking grace with the wit of a jester—he who swore to set the world ablaze before recognizing another human being, capable of making mistakes, open to correcting those errors, learning, and starting anew.

Created in the image of God, the word of a son of God springs from the Nature of his Creator, to whom he is like. “Even if you don’t like what God decides, you, Luther, are no one to take away Peter’s leadership.”

We have the right to cry out when the dagger pierces our soul—isn’t that right, Job?—but we also have the duty to preserve the wisdom of one who acknowledges his pain and brings his hand to his mouth.

Unfortunately, for every good person there are many bad ones; for every humble person who bows his head when corrected, there are ten proud ones willing to set the world on fire rather than admit they're wrong. Man refuses to remain a field for the Devil's Seed to grow.

Unfortunately, that kind of Lutheran behavior has been a constant in recent centuries. Without condemning anyone, we observe that from the dawn of science in Greece, every time a philosopher formed a scientific vision of the universe, as if by magic, all the bodies of the cosmos would immediately come to dance to his tune. With the Fall of the Roman World, it came to be believed that this complex of omnipotence of Reason had been left behind, crushed under the hooves of Attila's horse. Until Martin Luther came along with his torch from hell to set the Christian world ablaze. With the Renaissance, the Modern World inherited that complex of faith and infallible reason that was believed to be dead. Since Luther, many have rushed to pick up the torch of reason's omnipotence, making the very infallibility they condemned in others the philosopher's stone of their fratricidal wars.

Although it goes without saying, it must be noted that the battle between roosters for the scepter of the world champion soon spilled over into the realm of world wars.

The lesson of Wisdom was not welcomed with open arms: "The further Man strays from the Spirit of Jesus Christ, the deeper civilization sinks into the abyss of War."

There's always some self-proclaimed enlightened one who thinks he's better than the dictator who bit the dust; and, convinced he can succeed where others failed, he ends up convincing many that he's the closest thing to a god. Delusional, entrenched in the belief that everyone has a price, he turns the nation's treasury into his personal piggy bank with which to weave the spider's web of corruption in which, once entangled, everyone is doomed to fall into the same pit. In short, the story of the Cains of all nations and centuries.

We understand that a Relationship of Equality with God in the realm of Power is to open the Door to Madness. That is the door through which that son of God passed, who, driven mad by his ambition for unlimited Power, banished the Likeness in the Spirit from his Being and sought Equality with God in the sphere of Power.

We believe that a civilization that has its origin in the Social Personality of a Being for whom a single Word is enough to reduce an entire universe to dust, when the Spirit of the Law upon which He has established the future of His world is rejected: this opens a confrontation between the Creator and His Creation, the very idea of which is pure madness.

Civilization is Christ-based in the realm of intelligence, in the image and likeness of His own. And since, according to the Law by which one lives, the personality of a Being moves farther away from or closer to another person depending on the distance between those laws, the Law that unites all people in a single social behavior within a civilization open to growth over time, can be none other than the Universal Law by which the Creator governs His own social behavior. Hence, since God's love for life is the origin of the world, all people have the responsibility to defend our fellow human beings from all lies and deception regarding who God is, what the meaning of our existence is, and what the reality of the nature of man and woman is.

With our feet firmly on the ground, we understand that Jesus Christ died to redeem the Past and fill the Future with life. That Future is us. We were not born to be sacrificed. Our responsibility is to the fullness of the nations. To defend all our fellow human beings, to combat all the lies established throughout the ages of the past, to open our minds to the New Millennium—that Day about which we read: “the whole creation waits in eager expectation for the revelation of the glory of the freedom of the sons of God”—speaking of us—has arrived. One God, one Law, one Civilization. It is our right to defend our freedom and that of our fellow human beings: our duty as children of God is to confront Death and ensure that the human being is not a field in which to sow the seed of war.

We have experienced the Knowledge of Good and Evil. We are not gods. We know that war is the fruit of lies, that lies breed corruption, and that corruption gives rise to war. This is the cycle that has been raging on Earth for six thousand years. The Final Battle for World Peace and Universal Health had to come, and it has come. Today begins that “Tomorrow” spoken of in Scripture—it is Today. There is no turning back now. No one can stop the dawn. No one can stop the end of the night and the beginning of a new day. The same star heralds the end of the night and the beginning of the new day. This is the work of the One who created the night and the day.

The Light of Truth is already breaking over the horizon. It is time to rise and face the Last Enemy—Death—head-on. The time granted to the Devil to lead the world to its utter destruction is coming to an end. But the journey of the fullness of the nations toward the Encounter with the Son of Man continues. No one knows when God, Lord of Time, will settle the accounts. The mission of all the children of God in this century is to bequeath to the generations of the coming century a civilization founded on the Rock of the Spirit of the Universal Law, so that when the Son of Man arrives, he may find faith on Earth.

Chapter 1

PRINCIPLE OF THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN WILL AND INTELLIGENCE

What is Freedom? An idle, common, almost vulgar question, for who does not know what Freedom is? Is there anyone who does not know what Freedom is? Who can be prevented from giving their opinion, their idea of what Freedom is?

If we go out into the street and ask, we'll discover that there are as many opinions, definitions, and expressions of what freedom is as there are human beings willing to express their thoughts. And we'd conclude that freedom is this: being free to express what's inside us. And yet, here we fall into a fallacy, for defining a concept by what the concept itself is—"Freedom is speaking freely about what freedom is"—is to say absolutely nothing about the universal nature of freedom, which is precisely the answer we are seeking to a question of universal significance.

So, by asking freely and in confidence, we would find that each social group has a different—or, if you will, unique—idea of what freedom is.

For a member of the Boy Lover Movement, for example, freedom would be the abolition of the crime of corruption of minors through a political law on consensual relations based on "Yes Means Yes," whereby the offender is exempt from punishment for his crime due to the non-coercive nature of his vile crime.

For a corrupt politician, freedom means having the government's blessing to embezzle up to 250,000 euros from the public treasury without having to answer for their crime in court.

For a drug trafficker, freedom will mean the legal distribution and sale of his products.

For a pimp, freedom will be the legalization of the buying and selling of human beings for sexual exploitation.

For a judge, selling rulings could be freedom.

For a genocidal perpetrator, freedom would be the right to declare war on his neighbor.

For a king, freedom would be having it all, for free.

And so on and so forth.

A statistic generator following this model will banish from the question the universal value we are seeking regarding the concept that everyone invokes and over which each believes they have exclusive claim. In the end, the conclusion will be that freedom would be to be a god "in the image and likeness of that Satan who sought to impose his will even upon God." This type of person, for whom freedom is the absolute power to impose their will on everyone, using the law as a whip and justice as a slave at their service, is the most common prototype in the annals of world history.

One need not be a genius to understand that this idea of freedom in the image and likeness of Satan implies, in the personality of the one who possesses it, a malevolent character. And yet, as long as we leave the nature of freedom to individual possession, just as legitimate will be the world of a “woke” culture that seeks to establish, under the slogan “Yes Means Yes,” the sexual exploitation of children, thereby exorcising the crime of corruption of minors, as legitimate as the right of the politician to place himself above the law and set himself up as the Lord and Master of the State, so that from that position he may abolish the State’s duty to protect and defend the Nation and the Citizen.

We observe, then, that by asking those born free about the nature of freedom, we would get nowhere. A statistics center that undertook a survey of this nature would not be seeking the truth, but quite the opposite: to destroy the search for the nature of that true freedom with which we all identify. Whom, then, should we ask about the True Nature of Liberty: the slave owner or the slave?

Because we were all slaves before we became Christians, and Universal History lies before us to guide our thinking along the correct path that leads us to the Universal Value of Freedom. Aware of what Freedom means to the slave owner, and what Freedom means to the slave, and since Slavery is a crime against Humanity, anyone who wishes to arrive at the Truth about the Nature of Freedom must turn to the Slave and ask: What is Freedom?

No, we are not living in the days before Christianity, nor do we live in the days of the medieval Islamic state; we are also supposed to have broken free from the absolutism of modern kings, and we have likewise rejected the totalitarian, communist, and Nazi regimes of the 20th century. So, speaking as citizens, , we understand what all those social systems had in common, namely: the nullification of the citizen’s will for the sake of an aristocratic family, a theocratic association, or a political party—all in the interest of subjugating everyone to the infallible reason of a single individual.

The slave, whose personal will has been buried and who is subjected by terror to the will of another—be it an individual or a state—is the source to which we must turn to see, in all its immensity, the universal value of freedom.

Freedom, as embodied in the life of the Slave—which our parents once were—and which therefore lives on in us as Historical Genetic Memory, is the exercise and enjoyment of our Personal Will within the framework of a Universal Law whose spirit drives a Civilization in which the Life of the Being remains intact. The duty of the State, in this civilization, is to erect a constitutional wall impervious to corruption against the exercise of the pathology of that criminal will defined by the invocation of terror as a means to abolish our Universal Freedom, which, as the Soul of Individual Happiness, is and must be for all of us a Sacred Law—the one and only true sacred social law that is legitimate, by which we must rise up, come what may, against anyone who transforms a religion or a political government into a criminal weapon against equality and fraternity among the peoples of a nation, and against friendship and peace among nations, for the sake of personal, tribal, or family interests.

For man as a citizen, and for Society—since, by his social nature, man coexists and lives among his fellow human beings—the Divine Nature of the Spirit of Liberty is the bedrock upon which to build a civilization in which nations share in the invincible enjoyment of that liberty by which the will of each person is defended by a power whose physical body has its origin in us.

It follows from what we see and have learned from the history of the science of good and evil in our world that the first barrier any government governed by the hidden intention of making its Will the source of the law: is to make us all believe that the State is a Body with no Origin in us and, consequently, has no other Master than the Government, in whose service it exists and to which it devotes all its Power. The Malice inherent in this system of thought need not be emphasized.

But it does follow that any association—be it a political party, a religious community, a scientific ideology, or any other form invented by evil people to impose upon everyone a will contrary to the freedom of all to enjoy happiness—is that is, the peace and health to which we are all entitled by birth, is, in and of itself, a “crime against humanity.”

The exercise of power, when conferred by the State upon a political, religious, or scientific organization by a will foreign to the universal will, with the aim of imposing the will of an individual and his group upon an entire nation—is a crime against humanity insofar as it crushes the will of everyone by imposing upon us that slavery, derived from an existence cast at the feet of a group, individual, or tribe: to the level of animals living in a state of mere survival.

It is understandable that a family of pimps would enslave their workers, making it impossible for them to buy their freedom; and it is understandable why such murderous behavior comes naturally to the mind of any family dedicated to crime. But a nation is not a business dedicated to the trafficking of human flesh, which is subjugated by turning the treasury into a whip, day after day striking down the joy of having conquered a society in which happiness and freedom are two sides of the same coin. Here we understand that there is no happiness without freedom; and consequently, that the degree of deprivation of happiness is the barometer that measures the degree of loss of freedom. This is where the discourse of that family doctor comes in, the one who lays out the hepatitis virus strategy—a bug that latches onto your healthy liver, and gradually undermines your organ over the years, without you realizing it, until one day you wake up with severe cirrhosis. Bad People are to Freedom what that virus is.

Thus, we see that Freedom is the Enjoyment of Happiness that the Law extends to all citizens—a law that becomes one with the Social Nature of Being because it springs from Being; a law whose universal metaphysical purpose is the Exercise of Individual Will within a Civilization whose Origin is Coexistence in Society.

So, once again, the Law of Freedom is sacred because it defends the life of the personal will by declaring a crime the exercise of individual will against the universal will founded on the happiness of all.

The history of nations, laid out before us, teaches us that there have been a multitude of models of slavery, or the suppression of the personal will of societies by a limited group of individuals for whom freedom was, and continues to be, the elevation of their own will to the level of what they understand to be a god—a tribal dimension they impose through terror, ideologies, religions, economic systems, mass media, and so on.

The history of the growth of Christian civilization has been a constant, relentless war against criminal systems, imposing a freeze in time—if not a regression to the “happy days” (for them) of the division of human beings into slaves and free people; and because our knowledge of the regressive transformations toward systems of slavery opens our minds to defend our freedom, to never accept anyone’s will over that of the Being that lives within us; this battle opens our eyes to the necessity of banishing from our minds the final and lethal scientific imposition of the division of Being into the Strong and the Weak. Always, of course, without undermining the scientific foundation of the creation of life from the Creator Stem Cell of the Tree of Species.

That said, six thousand years of relentless struggle against a human prototype found in that evil son of God—whom we see on the Mount of Temptations offering a man all the kingdoms of the world in exchange for his soul— lead us to understand that Government by Decree is a Crime against Society, the Nation, and Civilization, and that the only response that Man can harbor within his Being, against the selling of the soul for riches and power, is that of the Universal Prototype, from whose Mouth we have learned to say, today, tomorrow, and for eternity: Vade Retro, Satan.

A law that affects us all must be endorsed by all.

A government that imposes its law against the will of all, invoking the government’s right to exercise power in accordance with the party’s ideology—such a government commits a crime against the freedom of the peoples who created that power.

Power has been created to guarantee the freedom of everyone’s will against the personal or group will of an association that transforms the exercise of power into the all-powerful exercise of the will of personal or tribal interest: establishing by decree, against those who do not submit to that masked dictatorial will, a political war.

The use of lies as a political weapon to gain and maintain access to government is by no means what defines the nature of the state’s service to the nation.

There can be no freedom where a group of people—disguised as religious figures, Muslims, or ideologues of freedom (Socialists)—use the power of the state to override the will of the citizen and subject the people to the exclusive criminal will of their Supreme Leaders.

It follows from the foregoing that the exercise of a personal or tribal will over and against the will of the creators of national power—being a crime against the freedom of the individual—constitutes a crime of high treason against the citizen when the sovereignty of the people is denied, transferred to the government, thereby disinheriting the nation, and opposition to the wisdom of said government constitutes an attack on democracy.

A government established on an ideological legal framework of this nature—typical of 21st-century Hispano-American socialism and of the , must, in response to the need to maintain that anti-democratic legal framework, politically eliminate the will of the people; to put it bluntly: whatever the people say goes in one ear of the government and out the other. The government does as it pleases. And it does so because, for that government, the definition of freedom is doing whatever it wants. When that government speaks of freedom, it refers to its freedom to govern without regard for constitutional law.

Thus, the anti-democratic fallacy becomes a reality when the sovereignty of the people passes to the government, and the government abolishes that sovereignty by appropriating it to subjugate the people to the power of its leader's will—a leader who defends the will of his political tribe in response to the mandate he has received from his party.

We return to the Metaphysics of Power:

Freedom is the exercise and defense of the Will of the Universal Being against an individual or group will that, through the conquest of Power, expropriates the sovereignty of the people, from whose government it banishes the Sovereign's Happiness through the exercise of Power by Decree—a practice, as history teaches us, to the Absolutism of modern kings, characteristic of the Imperialism of medieval and ancient civilizations, which still exist among us.

When National Freedom is nullified through the expropriation of the Sovereignty of the Citizen, from whom Power emanates, the first wall to be destroyed by the Power of a Government established upon the Crime of Appropriating the Sovereignty of the People will be the dismantling of the cultivation of Man's Intelligence. Man, the natural enemy of the enslavement of the self against a criminal will that finds its glory in shielding itself against the Law: Man is born in God, his Creator, to declare himself, in the image and likeness of Jesus Christ, His Son, in perpetual war against any kind of political body that transforms the exercise of government into a weapon for imposing the interests of its party.

Thus, if the Will of the Being is the foundation upon which the Future of Civilization is built, the Spirit of intelligence is the source that sustains this Will to defend Universal Freedom through the Sacred Law of Individual Freedom.

It is not in vain that every Good Dictator has as a fundamental criminal ideological premise the transformation into the Enemy of the Cultivation of the Citizen's Intelligence, thereby opening between Will and Intelligence the abyss over which the Good Dictator's Government will extend its Power. The Crisis of Democracy has its origin in this criminal attack against the Metaphysics of the Cultivation of the Intelligence of the Future in the generations of the Present.

Our Creator, when the First Homo Sapiens rejected the universal value of freedom and chose the totalitarian power of a god in the image and likeness of a demon, invoking terror as the source of his power—our God responded to that madness by revealing to us in His Word the fall of that bridge into the abyss: “When you cultivate it, it will yield thorns and thistles.” No one will believe that God spoke about cultivating the land of the countryside. God is Creative Intelligence; His Word referred—and refers—to the cultivation of intelligence within the human being by an absolutist mindset for whom Intelligence in the image and likeness of the Divine is the number one enemy to be fought and crushed. Such is the immediate effect of the need to maintain a government sustained by the law of a will founded on tribal interest, with the goal set on the enjoyment of the State’s riches.

Nothing new under the sun?

There is always something new. Evil people grow and transform. Universal History is the History of War because Evil People are the true Pandemic that devastates the Freedom and Happiness of the Human Race. The Goal of Evil People is centered on “themselves ”; everything revolves around their personal interest. We, the people, exist as a means to satisfy that egocentric, individual, and tribal interest. Apart from this need, we, the people, mean absolutely nothing to the evil people. When Evil People seize power, they do so through lies, and once in government, they isolate themselves from the people; we are nothing more than a ballot, and once cast, they throw it into the fire. How can one not enact a Hate Law when hatred is being sown!

The need to exercise power against the nature of an intelligence undergoing accelerated revolutionary growth—especially in our time—ends up fostering hatred toward an ideology and a party, which, even if at first it resists and becomes resilient against the fruit of its own madness, universal history shows that its end follows the law of decline and the consequent fall.

We have seen this law at work in Venezuela. And what we have seen should frighten those who believe themselves to be beyond fear; in order to survive, the tribe betrayed its leader. In Spain, it seems the Leader has learned the lesson and has begun to distance himself from the ringleaders of the tribe who might have and intended to betray their Leader, handing him over to the justice system to save their own skins. The Leader is now a god; anyone who raises their voice against his policy of plundering the public treasury—and does not blame the Opposition for all the evils created by his scorched-earth policy—is a heretic, risking becoming an outcast banished from the tribe. The Spanish Socialist Leader is a Good Dictator because he does not follow the law of assassinating the opposition, as in China or in Russia. However, the drift of the gods has a clear path toward imitating their idols. The need to import the successful dictatorial system for their own victory implies this.

Returning to Freedom as a Universal Value of Being, the maintenance and growth of Individual Freedom tends toward the Universal Being as a natural response to the Cultivation of Personal Intelligence from a metaphysical—and always sacred— perspective, insofar as it is the fruit of the Will of a Being for whom Freedom is sacred, making Individual Freedom a Universal Good to be defended by the Society of the Fullness of nations.

To believe that there can be Happiness where Freedom is cast into the realm of daily Survival is irrational. Whoever builds the edifice of their Power—like one who allows themselves to be manipulated to the point of being treated as a herd, as we recall from the Pandemic—allows themselves to be dragged down to the lowest level of what a Human Being is: to be compared to livestock; and for their obedience to Power to be labeled as “herd obedience”—this is the most infamous insult that can be spat in the face of a Citizen!!

Man is more than just a beast. Whoever treats Man by comparing him to cattle believes himself to be a god. His fall from the top of the tower from which he ruled like a god will be all the more horrific the higher his glory soared.

It is the oldest story in the world. And yet it is the most coveted fruit of history: to be a god for a day.

The People are sick and tired of the same old story about Change. The Change that never changes anything. But it proves that donkeys really do fly. And they fly because their wings are the legs of ignorance.

A hoax has taken hold, starting with the UN. Knowing how to read eliminates illiteracy. If you know how to read, you know how to sign—that’s it; now the donkey can keep flying. Because how else will they reach into the people’s pockets if the donkey doesn’t fly? The people must be given the flying donkey; the people have to look up at the sky, and Science has a duty to give that flying donkey mathematical substance. The “Change” that doesn’t change must continue its flight.

How can we establish a Universal Systematic Theft if the People stop believing in the flying donkey!!

Establishing the Relationship between the Present and the Future based on the Vital Principle of Individual Intelligence as the Source of Happiness for all Nations—and linking this Personal Intelligence to the Creative Source of Life in the Universe—is an Anti-Socialist Heresy from the moment that, intimately united, we declare ourselves to be “that Change that never changes anything”—the greatest fraud conceived by Evil People, whose only Goodness lies in distributing the State Treasury among the obedient members of their tribe.

To build the future in the hands of an International Teaching Body created to lead generations along the Path of United Global Intelligence to the threshold of Universal Freedom is the duty of the government—here in Europe, there in the Americas, and in every part of the world. It goes without saying that, to fulfill this Platonic Philosophy, it would be necessary to implement the mechanisms required to prevent the worst elements of the people from seizing Power. And conversely, murdering Socrates is the number one necessity of any State serving a Government composed of the worst of the worst that a people can produce. What does the Platonic Republic have to do with the Modern Republic? In the former, it is the best who administer the nation for the good of all; in the latter, it is the worst who, organized around a lie, seize the government to use the power of the state for their own interests. Let us remember this, so that the example may serve as a lesson for all. To whom does the Prosecutor’s Office belong? — To the State — To whom does the State belong? — To the government — Then...

The intention to engage in crime is premeditated and malicious.

Once again, the history of nations and the centuries teaches us that cultural deprivation and ignorance are the weapons that every criminal intent wields in order to subjugate the will of the people to its dictatorial freedom.

Due to their ignorance of the science of power in the image and likeness of that god-son for a day, God justified that first generation, the root of the empires of antiquity. Approximately 6,500 years later, we have justification of any kind for continuing to make Power in the image and likeness of those Evil People the prototype of the Man of the Third Millennium.

It is not a matter of what we want or do not want. When Individual Good is disconnected from Universal Good, Evil ensues for all, along with the ruin of those who banished from their being the recognition of the value of their neighbor's will, and focused instead on the glory of their personal will as the foundation of freedom of all; a pathological behavior that, in its final schizoid phase, fosters legislation that allows him to shield himself from the consequences of his crimes, exposing everyone to civil war, should the need arise, as a means to crush opposition to his dictatorship—a dictatorship to which, due to his own crimes against national happiness, he would have to resort in order to remain free.

While the cultivation of creative intelligence in humankind is the driving force behind future happiness, anyone who aspires to a government in which his position is that of a god, in accordance with the words of that demon: “You will be beyond good and evil,” the would-be dictator must reduce generational intelligence to the functional necessity that every slave requires to keep his master's house clean and prosperous.

Needless to say, a tree is known by its fruits; and the thoughts of men by their deeds; so that from a nation's crisis one can deduce the growing evil, fueled by a government based on the glory of a personal will for which the creative intelligence of freedom is pernicious.

Since this Power is determined to remain on the Olympus of its glory, it falls to all of us to understand that the propaganda of an autocrat's regime must be countered by a law separating state and government, so that the creation of civilization may continue to grow at its own pace regardless of the circumstances of the times—and this is where a True Government comes in: to provide the responses to the movements that the growth of Intelligence creates on the horizon of Time.

Let us bear in mind that since Man was created to enjoy Intelligence in the image and likeness of his Creator, the horizon of Intelligence's growth surpasses the imagination of the generations living in the Present.

CHAPTER 2
PRINCIPLE OF SILENCING

To silence issues for which one has no arguments, and to downplay news that favors the opponent, countering the counterattack with the help of sympathetic mass media.

How much does it cost to create a World, build a Universe, or stretch out a mountain range of stars?

How much time does it take to give shape to the heavens, how many sciences must be laid out on the table to create an Earth, what mathematics must be mastered to configure a solar system?

For how many billions of years must the fields of the Earth be cultivated to produce life in the image and likeness of God?

How easy it is to destroy, to tear down the tree of the family of nations—a single spark, a single lie, ignites the fuse, and hell breaks loose!

What level of intelligence must a man possess to feel like a god of war!

What genius and wisdom are needed to reduce another life to dust!

How much immorality is required to drag a people into ruin!

At what university is the science of destruction taught: what IQ must those who hold professorships at the University of the Science of Good and Evil have?

Those who applaud a warlord—what IQ must they have?

What requirements must an aspirant meet to rise as a full-fledged god in the Palace of the Gods in Brussels?

“You shall be like the gods.” The First Great Lie.

Gods beyond good and evil: Justice will be your concubine, the Law will be your whore of light!! Kneel down and take a seat in the Palace of the Gods in Brussels. Its foundations are corruption. This is no joke, nor is it a hoax.

The budget was approved. X billion euros. As construction progressed, the original budget doubled. When the Palace of the Gods was completed, no one knew when or where the billions charged to the Common European Fund had disappeared. And then the mainlanders were surprised by the departure of the Islanders from the Fourth Reich.

Heil, God save the gods, fist up, scythe down—the only direction a pedestrian should walk is toward the slaughterhouse of the word.

How many massacres, genocides, serial crimes, slaughters, and wars have we witnessed in the last 50 years? What good is the UN peacekeeping force? Sad sights— the Blue Helmets fleeing civil conflicts .

The parasite that lives off the dream of an environmental utopia, a land where the Adams and Eves of the future will have nothing and will be happy; for now, they have it all and won't let go of a thing—from their rifles they fire the murderous rose of Progress and Equality. The unsolvable paradox of the Good Dictator: taking from the rich to give to the poor, and losing everything along the way— missing—the serpent conceived in a dove's egg, the rose of manure, a foul stench, worms in its petals. Italy seeks Cratxi. Papandreou hid in Athen's Omonia Square his plunder of Greece's wealth; Mitterrand... a Before and After of the French Chameleon. After Zapatero, the catastrophe!

Spain is still searching for its lost smile, the car that was stolen from it, its "Viva," its paellas by the river, its village festivals in the countryside, its firecrackers and Christmas zambombas. What joy—the public relations department of a "Happy Ending" establishment set up as the savior of the Fatherland, and of the world.

Six thousand years living in this hell, and there are still people who haven't understood a thing? Are we doomed to return to dust, leaving this disastrous memory among the stars??

A simple lie, and millions of years of work thrown overboard.

Which is easier, to create or to destroy? How many criminals are there for every saint? For every honest man, how many assholes are there? There are NO statistics. It is not the CNE's role to publish annual statistics on the rise or decline of diseases, nor to provide scientific guidance for directing university medical research toward the burning hotspots; the CNE's concern is changing the diapers of the President and his tribe of sycophants. It is not the CNE's duty to publish an annual report on the progress of the Fight Against Crime, the nature of new forms of criminality; who shoots at the Master?

Statistics on the rise in mental illness, venereal diseases, and suicides; the battle plan against the Death of the Human Race lies on the table. No, the CNE is only concerned with cleaning its master's sword. "Dust you are, and to dust you shall return." The idiots interpret this Law by saying: The Screw-Up cannot be amended. And so, dancing on the grave in the waters of immigrants summoned by the trumpet of hell, we approach the precipice.

The question is: Do we really have to let ourselves be dragged along by a gang of scoundrels? God turned away from the path to hell taken by those who chose to be kings in hell rather than simple citizens of His kingdom.

"You will be like gods," said Satan, as he killed his brother.

"You are gods, giving your lives for your brothers," said Jesus Christ.

And now let each one decide.

Silencing the questions for which one has no arguments...

What is this? What one does not know, one asks about; the beginning of wisdom. What one knows, one answers; the beginning of democracy.

Power is attained to provide answers. If questions are silenced, the Dictator hides in Silence.

The duty of the government is to anticipate the problems of the times, to address issues before they arise.

Whoever forbids questions discovers that it never crossed his mind to seek power for any other reason than to be a god for a day—and if for two, all the better—and if forever...I won't even tell you.

Silencing questions is the manifestation of an intelligence devoid of any good. All that his mind produces is misery and ruin. There's no need to name the sinner; it's the law of Universal History ever since Cain killed Abel.

It's true; let's extend Pauline charity to this archetype of a bad person. "I want to do good, but all I end up doing is evil." Cain wanted a very great good: to be the Avenger of his father's death. And along the way, to reclaim the crown his father had lost. The divine prophecy was clear. A son of Eve—and he was one—would crush the head of his father's murderer. His brother Abel was a shepherd; always with the sheep, he had no interest in power, he was happy herding his lambs through the hills. What doubt could there be! Vengeance fell to him. Typical natural reasoning. Any other man would have agreed with Cain's conclusion.

It's true—no matter what man had been faced with the enigma of the Prophecied Vengeance, every man, regardless of his origin or color, would have reached the same conclusion as Cain. But God did not seem to think the same. "He's going to give the crown to the shepherd," Cain exclaimed in outrage. "I'll kill the shepherd and force God to pass the crown on to me." "Stop," God said to him, "for I am not a man, and I do not think like one."

Man or God, the truth was that since the Word is God and Eve had no other children, despite being his brother's murderer, God would have to swallow that elephant. It was either him or no one. NO ONE kills the Cyclops, but here the story is different. The Word is God, and if God does not keep His Word, the Word of God is no different from the word of man. So who makes whom his equal?

Absurd— the Devil's Argument before the tribunal of the children of God. Cain killed Abel because that was his Destiny; Abel fulfilled his by dying. Is not God omniscient, prescient, and infinite in wisdom? He set the stage, cast the actors, and the brothers played their roles to perfection.

Is it just to condemn the executor and grant amnesty to the mastermind behind the crime? Satan asked the court of the children of God.

Granting amnesty to the mastermind of the crime makes justice a farce. God creates one to deliver the blow and the other to receive it—and yet the mastermind of this crime walks away with clean hands? Where is justice? One of two things: either justice does not exist, or God is neither foreknowing nor omniscient, nor is His wisdom infinite.

And Satan fell silent. The line of argument chosen to demand amnesty for his crime could only be refuted from a position of terror in the power of God. Is it on the basis of terror at the power of God that the creation of life in His image and likeness has its guarantee of world peace? Who can assure us that what happened today on Earth will not happen again tomorrow to any other people?

What does Jesus Christ say?

“The one to whom I give bread—he will betray me.”

Can this betrayal be reconciled with the Devil’s Argument, later taken up by Calvin in his Ecclesiastical Manual for the Genocide against Catholicism?

Given the unlimited power that Jesus Christ displayed in broad daylight, why didn’t Jesus stop Judas?

Calvin answered this question by embracing the Devil’s Argument.

The Apostles answered this question by saying, “God is Love,” thereby affirming that the responsibility for the future of civilization—once life has been created in the image and likeness of its Creator—rests in the hands of the being created to love justice, truth, and peace, or to reject them. It is this freedom that distinguishes us from animal life. It is the Creator’s duty and responsibility, as a Father, to make known to us the fruits of one tree and the other. To nullify the freedom to reject good and choose evil would mean erasing from our being that which distinguishes us from beasts. Jesus could have told Judas, “Don’t do it,” and He was telling him so through the discourse revealing His divine power. If, through that discourse, He could not rid Judas’s mind of the idea of using the Messiah to bring Jerusalem to the same fate as Rome, the decision was Judas’s to make.

The Law is unwavering: “Do not eat, for you will die.” Loving the Law or hating it comes as part of the Creation of life in the image and likeness of God. The last thing a Person of God’s Uncreated Nature can conceive is to be challenged by a creature whose nature is no different from that of clay. Not even God can enslave Himself to monitoring the behavior of His creation. God has His own Life. He creates beings with lives of their own, endowed with freedom, worshippers of Social Life, lovers of Truth, of Justice, of Peace, within the dimension of a Civilization open to Participation in the History of its Creator.

He who has the Power to destroy a field of galaxies, to reduce its body to dust floating in the abyss, and to create a New Cosmic Field—can He see Himself chained to the ambition of creatures dreaming of sitting on God’s throne?

“Let us make Man in our image and likeness”—a creative, active, dynamic, social being who loves Freedom, Brotherhood, Equality, and the Law of World Peace.

Let no one be mistaken. God is Love, but God is Spirit. “Zeal for Your House consumes me.” The Spirit is a Fire that burns for Justice, and is never consumed. To mock Justice, to make Justice the Harlot of Power, is to walk toward the gallows, like Judas. How, then, must we banish Religion and Politics from the formation of the Intelligence of future generations !

Returning to the first civil war. It seems Cain’s intention was good. Had he sought to regain power for his lost father, we would have been spared six thousand years of fratricide. The blood of a single man would have spared us all six thousand years of endless world civil war. A tragedy, to kill one’s own brother. But what about the benefit for the whole world?

The problem is that God is not a man. He does not think like men. Man considers himself the center of the world. God’s responsibility extends His gaze to the future of the fullness of the nations. “Bread for today and hunger for tomorrow? When I die, let them all die.” That is how one who believes himself to be a god thinks.

Millennia later, that god appeared on the Mount of Temptations. “You are crowned king, you raise your throne to the realm of empire, you bring progress and equality; the nations will acclaim you as their god....” One problem: “You are gods, but you will die like any of the princes.” You have come to take care of your Father’s affairs, isn’t that true? Your Father’s affairs are the affairs of the Future of all nations throughout and before Eternity. Read it again, remember: “You are gods, but you will die like any of the princes.” There is no room here for immortality among men. You will have to leave, to become a memory in the Memory of the Future. What will happen when the centuries pass? You are free; you have life within yourself. Proclaim yourself king, establish your empire across the five continents. 120 years is the limit of human life. What will become of your crown when you are gone? What do you bring us—peace for today and war for tomorrow? It is a question that demands an answer.

Like so many other questions that life—in a world subject to the Law of the Science of Good and Evil—throws in our faces.

That is what Power is for—to provide answers.

But the Good Dictator does not answer. His only argument is his own navel; he is the center of the world. He has come to make himself rich, to enjoy the life of a god for as long as he can, and after him, let every dog howl at whichever moon shines brightest upon him.

Will not the spirit be enraged at a Master of Lies dragging an entire nation into fratricide to satisfy his boundless ambition?

Who will respect a justice system kneeling before a wretch who seized power with a lie?

What an abominable marvel—Justice kneeling before a wretch! The Law in the service of an arrogant villain defying everyone with “it’s either me or ruin”!

This is the story of thousands of peoples deceived by a smile, beaten down by ambition, and sold out to the most wretched of men—children of corruption and greed.

This is the history of the Earth, millennia leaping from war to war, the baton of empire passing from hand to hand like a relay baton in a 4x4 race: the prize of “being a god for a day.”

“Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.” Yesterday they did not know; today they know it perfectly well. The same causes produce the same effects; the present’s reaction to an action experienced in the past produces an equal or similar reaction.

Isn’t this Intelligence? Have the laws of the universe ceased to exist? Slaves and free, servants and masters, the strong and the weak, the poor and the rich... the same old story told by different old women.

Yesterday, just as today, women give birth to beasts. No one can stop the wheels rolling toward Termini Station: “Dust you are, and to dust you shall return.” Only God can. But no one understands God. In their greed, men invent religions, ideologies, cosmologies, and anthropological justifications upon which to justify the crimes of kings, their prophets, and their gods.

The spirit of the Tree of Lies distributes its fruit: “Hate.” I hate the Sumerians, I hate the Babylonians, I hate the Assyrians, I hate the Persians, I hate the Greeks, I hate the Romans, I hate the Jews, I hate the Christians... And Death continues to distribute its infernal fruit from century to century. It is the fruit of the chosen ones who live to be gods for a single day!

“Kneel, worship me, and all the kingdoms of the world will be yours.”

Can one give what does not belong to them? Can I give my head to a body that is not my own?

It seems that yes, one can. How beautiful is the forbidden fruit! Isn’t that right, Eve? To be a goddess, to make your word the whip with which to reduce man to the status of potential criminals....

Silencing the issues on which one has no arguments, and concealing the news that favors the adversary

Look around you—this program has been growing for decades. What makes it criminal is the diversion of public funds—originally intended to build schools, universities, hospitals, and municipal and national services—toward the purchase of the mass media. Because a lie repeated ad infinitum must rely on a tireless system of repetition that turns the dogma into truth:

whose cognitive capacity (ours) is limited, whose understanding (ours) is scant, and, furthermore, whose tendency to forget (ours) is great.

But since man is betrayed by a single kiss, let those lips drown in the sewers of corruption. With the marvelous, dazzling union of man's abstract intelligence and woman's practical intelligence violated, the gods of the palace always need someone for whom the Lie is the air they breathe. They call him a "POLITICIAN" because somehow they must dress up the jester whom they wish to pass off as a god for a day.

Man and woman, like Power, are bought and sold, because the intellectual capacity of the people (us) is limited, their understanding (ours) of the true reality of Power is nonexistent, and their memory (ours) is a blank page that is filled one day and erased the next...

The key to lifetime power lies in buying newspapers, television stations, social media, and dressing up the worst of the Party in fake gold—the less intelligent, the better—people who choke on a mosquito and swallow an elephant's tusk; that is the friend of the Good Dictator.

All in all, history is wise; those of us who attend its lessons know—because we see it—that what works in one part of the world does not work in another. To believe that just because a Good Dictator has triumphed in one nation, this is due to a universal scientific law that admits of no exceptions, only proves that the new aspirant belongs to that breed of suicides who cheerfully put the noose around their own necks.

Which leads us to one final question: If a lie repeated ad infinitum becomes the truth, will a truth repeated without limit be transformed into a lie?

Necessity imposes its law. If it imposed itself on God, how could it fail to impose itself on those whose intellect is directed toward plunder and dictatorship in the name of a supremacist socialism that, believing itself to be blessed by the UN, thinks it has (our) permission to crush historical truth, empty the National Memory, and reset the Human Brain by banishing all reference to Christianity as the Creative Force of Civilization—against which they have pounced like a pack of wolves, whose howls seek to exorcise the Nature of the Homo sapiens family, swearing that the reproductive organ does not define the male and female of all mammalian species on Earth....

Is our memory so short? In two thousand years, Death—raising army after army—has been unable to tear down the House that the Son of God built in Europe, and yet here come these worshippers of Wealth and Privileges—who, drawing on the Power of the Government, the State, and the Party, integrated into a single Totalitarian Nazi-Communist Supremacist entity, led by pimps, cocaine addicts, and drunkards, to declare war on the Creator of the Universe?

They have lied to themselves so many times that in the end they have come to believe their own lie; their own experience tells them that by buying up the mass media and creating, with the People's Treasury, new media outlets that serve as their slaves, the dogma of totalitarian propaganda will grant them the glory of abolishing the laws of Nature and the Spirit.

Well, if the supremacist wolves—aspiring gods for a day—have such a good memory, let them tell us how they intend to separate cause from effect. Are they not blind? They stumble over the stumbling block of war—the very one that shattered their fathers’ skulls—and believe they were born immune to the war they have summoned, even as they have opened the door of the present to the ghosts of the past.

Christian Europe is eternal!

Certainly, condemned to live by the Science of Good and Evil, knowing that Totalitarianism arises from the Identification of Party, Government, and State in the Body of the Good Dictator, the answer we must bequeath to future generations lies indisputably through the invincible separation between State and Government. The State endures; the Government changes hands.

No organ of the State should ever be elected by the Government. Justice belongs to the judges. Defense to the military. Education to educators. It is the Government’s exclusive responsibility to receive the needs of the nation—which arise from its growth—and to administer resources with a view to satisfying those needs. And so on, progressively.

These are not times for totalitarian adventures. The “mass individual” upon whom the UN seeks to impose its agenda does not exist. That “mass individual” died on the battlefields of the 20th-century world wars. We are in the 21st century; the man of the third millennium has at his disposal the largest library ever compiled; our intelligence soars to heights incomprehensible to the geniuses of the nineteenth century. Compared to our knowledge, Newtons and Einsteins are mere toddlers rambling about a universe their eyes could not grasp and a history their minds could not visualize.

And here come these disciples of the ghost of Communism and worshippers of the specter of Scientific Atheism to lecture us on Historical Memory. If only they were decent men, but no—the founders of the Universal Reset of the Human Brain have gone digging in the deepest sewers in search of aspiring pathetic dictators who don’t mind selling their souls to the devil.

CHAPTER 3.

Intelligence and Memory

One cannot understand the body of World History without seeing the direct involvement of the Creator of the Universe in the unfolding of the conflict which, since they are incapable of understanding the Cosmic Conflict in which life on Earth has been trapped, forces them to focus exclusively on themselves. The Son of God's involvement in our history had a cosmic effect with infinite consequences. Through his life and death, the Son of God has made it clear to us that, even though we are collateral victims, the Conflict goes beyond us: the true Battle causing the Tragedy of Mankind rises to the level of the War between God and Death over the permanence of the Creator's Law in the Cosmos.

The two versions of the relationship between the Creator of the Universe and Death in Creation were revealed to us, in all their clarity, in the encounter between JESUS and SATAN. The first, Jesus, represents a civilization governed by the Spirit of a Law whose justice defends the growth of peoples on the basis of the equality—without exception—of all citizens. Regardless of origin in space and time, the Spirit of this Law excludes any exception based on the relationship between the perpetrator of the crime and the Judge—in this case, GOD. An immunity based on kinship falls outside the Spirit of the Law. This is no mere figure of speech. Jesus Christ himself bowed his knees before the Law, thereby demonstrating before Heaven and Earth that the Law—incorruptible, universal, and all-powerful—is the guarantee of a life of peace and freedom for the entire world.

The Second, Satan, represents that archetype of a Ruler whose Power everyone treats as a sacred cow from which to extract meat and milk. He is accountable to no one for his crimes. He is a god. Anyone who criticizes his government is a fascist, and as such rightly deserves his political death. Depending on the geography where that god resides, political death is accompanied by physical death.

In the case of the Son of God, Jewish law was clear: Whoever dares to destroy the Temple in Jerusalem will be hung on a cross. JESUS did not hide the need to tear down that Temple—which belonged exclusively to the Jews—in order to create a new one open to all the families of the Earth. Jesus was aware of the Law. He said it time and again: "I have the power to lay down my life and the power to take it up again." Jesus had the power to bow his knees before the Law of his Father; he also had the power to do his own will. One way or another, since Jesus is true God from the True God, begotten of the uncreated Nature of God the Father, as Our Mother, the Holy Catholic Church, has revealed to us, death could not hold in its embrace the Son of God, begotten, not created, of the same uncreated Nature as God, his Father. What was Jesus to do? Is the Law a mere demonstration of Power by the Strong toward the Weak, by the Greater toward the Lesser? Or does not the Spirit of the Law consider the Life of all the peoples of Creation within the framework of a Justice founded upon a Universal Truth whose fruit is World Peace, the only fertile ground in which the Tree of Life produces in abundance the Fruit of Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity?

Regardless of the Lesson, Jesus revealed to us the Nature of the Cosmic Conflict created by the one who conceived—inspired by Death—a Government founded on a Clause of Exception, the consequence of which is that the Ruler is exempt from accountability for his Acts before any Court. The Representative of that Model of Imperial Government stood before JESUS, offering him all the kingdoms of the world—all he had to do was bend the knee. What man would not bend the knee before such a sweet temptation? Henry VIII didn't think twice: the Empire in exchange for denying Christ and declaring war on Catholic Europe. And God save the King.

Returning to the origin of the Endless World Civil War that has been ravaging the happiness of the human race for some 6,000 years, according to the reckoning of the Jews, that was the Great Corruptor's last resort: to provoke a division between God and His Son, to dig an unbridgeable chasm between God the Father and God the Son in whose abyss the Holy Spirit of the Law would be buried, so that from its depths might arise a Government of gods shielded from their crimes, free to kill time by playing their favorite sport: War. To tempt the Son away from his Father with the fruit of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, and win him over to his Reform of the Constitution, whereby the Government would become an Olympus of gods, each and every one free to live under the law of their own will—this was the true objective behind the Fall of the First Man. If Jesus were won over to their cause, would God send His Beloved Son to Hell?

A Perfect Plan! A Constitutional Reform premeditated to succumb to the Dictatorship of a Government established beyond the bounds of Justice. The State transformed into the criminal enforcement arm of the Progressive Reformers.

Woman deceived once again. Isn't the fruit of riches created with the sweat of others beautiful to behold? "All Power to the Leader." The oldest story in the world: Justice blindfolds herself eyes so as not to see her own face as a prostitute in the mirror of her crimes in the service of the Good Dictator; suddenly she removes the blindfold and discovers that being a high-class prostitute in the service of a Master forged in the sewers of the human flesh trade is a marvel. If the world isn't going to change anyway, why live blind?

God the Father gave His Final Word to that Model of Government that Death sought to impose upon Him: JESUS CHRIST is His Answer. The Answer of God the Son, before Heaven and Earth, to be engraved for Eternity in the souls of all the Citizens of His Creation, did not vary by a single word: "Do not eat, for you will die."

In fact, the Universal Law upon which to found a World Civilization does not allow for any exception of immunity from justice for any person. All men, from the one who considers himself the greatest, in religion as in politics, are Citizens; we never abandon this social nature that walks the streets in complete freedom, without fear of looking back, because we owe nothing to anyone. Without frightening anyone with that criminal aura of one whose glory lies in lies, and who must run away like a rat when his own deeds spit in his face.

The son of Satan from the North has a million unknown soldiers buried in the fields of Ukraine. And he announces that he's going to drag another 300,000 young people to Ukraine's graveyards. Where is human dignity at the UN? Why haven't the nations risen up to expel all diplomats of the Russian Federation from their territories and recall all ambassadors of the Christian World Civilization? Let them carry our message to Moscow: "Free yourselves from the yoke of the sons of Hell. Tear down the Kremlin stone by stone. Let the domes of the Cathedral on Red Square fall upon the Judas who has blessed the war of Satan's son."

Indeed, the Hierarchy exists for the purpose of administering a society founded on spiritual, moral, and ethical principles. But the nature of the citizen is not diluted by public service. Any law of exceptionality, masked as immunity—whether parliamentary or monarchical—signifies a rupture of this nature, and its consequence is the opening of the future to civil war.

All those endured by the human race had and continue to have their origin in this Law of Exceptionalism, conceived by Death and defended by kings, tyrants, dictators, and theocrats—the Enemy of God and of Man.

The universal history of the past and the present bears witness to this. The first fruit of this murderous law is corruption. Each and every political program concocted in the 20th century—in the name of the triumph of ideologies that were mortal enemies— had as their horizon of victory the destruction of man endowed with intelligence, empowered by his Thought to rise as an unconquerable barrier against public figures alien to the affirmation of the exercise of government "not as Power but as Service."

All masked their personal ambition to exercise power as a god in the image and likeness of Satan: a palace god with the freedom to kill time by playing at war, turning the people into toy soldiers marching toward their graves in the Cemetery of the Unknown Soldier. While the would-be god for a day races down the highway of civil war—the fruit of the corruption he cultivates, a suffocating corruption in constant growth—a smokescreen behind which the would-be legislator, aspiring to enjoy the privileges of power for life, weaves a web of laws contrary to the spirit of the Constitution—thanks, precisely, to the democratic spirit of the Opposition—the Good Dictator digs his own grave. Head of a corrupt body, the Great Corruptor drags down with him all his admirers—the beneficiaries of his unforgivable crime—down with him: invading the State, bringing it to its knees, destroying the Citizen's Only Defense against Power: a Free State at the Service of the families that created the Nation.

In short, the World Wars were the end result of the conflict created by the incompatibility of coexistence between systems whose goal was the same: to turn peoples into masses, and man into cattle. Communism and National Socialism set out on a path of mutual destruction in response to the impossibility of coexistence between the two systems within the same world. The human race returned, led by scientific atheism—the Great Apostasy—to the realm of fratricide: Cain or Abel—one of the two must die.

Are there truly not enough natural and human resources to feed all the families on Earth under the law of Universal Brotherhood?

Here we must yet discover how the Modern Age, which emerged from that Renaissance of Genius in the Human Being, sank into the abominable hell of world wars. We should trace the rise of the kings' absolutism and the fall of the imperialisms forged during the European religious civil wars.

The resurgence of Protestantism from that Arianism whose hatred of Catholicism plunged the early European nations into a fratricidal war, brought to an end by the Council of Nicaea, has been glossed over by historians in an unnatural way (perhaps because the victor writes history). But let us not be presumptuous. If we continue to project our memory back to the times before Christ, we will observe that the Cain-Abel paradigm was legitimized by the political powers of the first ruling cities in Mesopotamia. Since the power over life and death lies exclusively in the hands of God, whoever kills declares himself divine. Original Sin—which kings of all ages and regions embraced as the source and strength of their religions and empires! Without going any further, Caesar Octavian Augustus himself, when the kings of the Ancient World had already died in their divine tombs, came to legalize the deification of his throne. The lesson is not to be missed: the throne became the seat of madmen.

Louis XIV of France, even without crossing the line into religion, claimed to be a god.

What followed— the French Revolution—can be viewed in the shadow of the chronicles of a death foretold.

Returning to the origins of capitalism, the battle between Christian intellect and the boundless ambition of the national aristocratic houses was the fire that lit the fuse of Protestant hatred against the Catholic world. Aware of the impossibility of victory on purely theological ground—where the bones of thousands of heresiarchs lie in the dust, Protestantism resurrected the feudal monarchical spirit. The drift of private self-interest toward the realm of Absolutism under the Single Protestant Thought crushed within Man the Universal Interest as the alma mater of his behavior, thought, and emotions. In light of this, Humanism placed itself at the feet of Absolutism, the sole power capable of guaranteeing peace among nations. The example of Voltaire—a worshipper of totalitarian crowns and chronicler of Tsar Peter I the Great—speaks louder than ten volumes of discussion on the matter. The next move among the kings can be seen in the French Republican Revolution. The next in the Russian Communist Revolution.

Always the same parameters. War against Absolutism; the conquest of the Republic, of Republican Democracy, leading to the state's submission at the feet of the Great Corruptor—the leader and absolute god of the ruling Party—against whom to raise one's voice is to sign one's own death warrant, whether political or physical, depending on one's location.

And haven't we learned anything? The Alliance of Civilizations, an ideological system created to reconcile the coexistence of incompatible civilizations, mortal enemies by virtue of their internal laws, until the discovery of that ultimate weapon that destroys one and grants hegemony to the other. The feudalism of dividing people into rich and poor (aristocracy and commoners) transposed onto the geopolitics of state governments and nations.

This and nothing more than this:

All propaganda must be popular, adapted to the level of the least intelligent of the individuals at whom it is aimed. The larger the mass to be convinced, the smaller the mental effort required must be. For the cognitive capacity of the masses is limited and their comprehension is poor, and their tendency to forget is great.

What greatness on the part of the think tank that created the UN 2030 Agenda! Turning your back on the intelligent, kissing the ass of the clever.

It is the age of unrepentant mediocrity! The future of nations lies at the feet of organizations of subservient governments made up of minds for whom the use of intelligence causes a headache when their thinking is not guided by the principle of “getting rich in the shortest possible time with the least effort required.” Because this is the law of intelligence that the politician of the 2030 Agenda recognizes: cultivating the intelligence of generations by dragging their level down to that of a brain that functions to the rhythm of slogans for idiots. How else could anyone believe that Happiness lies in having nothing, that Progress is forged through the distribution of the wealth created by the creators of wealth among individuals for whom Power means satisfying their personal ambitions for Wealth! Powerless and incapable of creating their own, they plunder everyone else’s and expropriate all of us of what is ours.

The DOGMA states it emphatically:

The intellectual capacity to be cultivated and harnessed by the Slave Government must be adjusted to the level of intelligence of the dumbest among the fools of the Left-wing voters.

Ergo, by inference, the members of the Leftist Government must be chosen from among the most ambitious and immoral of that Nation upon which the boot of Progress is to be placed.

Understand this: “The greater the knowledge, the greater the suffering,” in the words of Aristotle. 2,500 years ago, this man lived—the wisest man of his time; things did not go so badly for the Sage by the standards of his era, teacher of Alexander the Great, no less. A youthful anomaly, or shall we call it a contradiction at the heart of a hypocrisy unaware of its own nature? Familiar with this Aristotelian doctrine, with the examples of the deaths of Socrates and Jesus Christ on the table, the lesson to be drawn is indisputable: the Good Dictator of the 2030 Agenda seeks in the ignorance of the Good Left-Wing Voter his own supreme happiness, the sumum bonum, the philosopher’s stone that will transform paper into gold. Didn’t Jesus turn water into wine? Therein lies the miracle that stirs the envy of the Left-wing voter: to be like him, a son of a bitch. Let's recall the joke. "Who do you want to be, son?" the father asks. A working man walks by, a judge walks by, a priest walks by. Then the one who has it all without doing anything walks by: "Look, that son of a bitch right there," says the father. "I want to be like that son of a bitch, Dad," replies the son.

So it is an act of Progress toward Happiness to limit the Intellectual Capacity of Generations, to leave the Future exclusively in the hands of lawless gods whose only religion is Money; translated into Christian terms: The Politician.

Truth does not exist; what exists is the Hoax. To believe that there is a Truth outside the Leader's words is a Hoax. Anything that contradicts the Word of the Good Dictator is a Hoax. The truth is him, the Good Dictator, the slave of the UN 2030 Agenda.

There is no waste:

All propaganda must be popular,

tailored to the level of the least intelligent among those it is aimed at.

The larger the mass to be convinced, the less mental effort required to do so.

For the cognitive capacity of the masses is limited, their comprehension is scant, and their tendency to forget is great.

Is this the root of the Global Policy signed by the UN? We are all part of the masses, our intellectual capacity is meager, our memory so poor that not even nanotechnology could count us, and is our comprehension that of a donkey content with its carrot? We are a flock, heads of cattle. The Master lives surrounded by jewels and diamonds...

The milk and wool come from the Flock—us; the blood and sweat are ours. And we are the masses, the Nothingness living off the crumbs that fall to the Master from the tables of his prostitution and plunder.

Criticism of the government? Remember, masses: opposition to the Good Dictator is Fascism; your criticism makes you a fascist.

Are you seeking Wisdom? Remember, masses: Happiness lies in Ignorance and in the Poverty of those who need not worry about having more or less: Happiness lies in having Nothing. Everything belongs to the Government: the State, you, me, our children.

Isn't this Progress?

New words—Nazism and Soviet absolutism united in a single dimension. How does this all add up? The Future's intelligence is amputated; future generations are thrown at the feet of mortal enemies—allies until the annihilation of Man with Free Thought and Free Speech. Immediately afterward, they are made to throw themselves at each other's throats.

Man —the Mass of the first half of the 20th century, in whose fields the Middle Ages were finally buried—resurrected by the Divine Power of 21st-Century Socialism funded by the World Organization of Islam. If this were a script for a Hollywood film, it might pass. But to apply a Hollywood script to the scale of World History is pathetic.

Some fanatics believe that what the Devil and his Mother, Death, could not do— destroy what God in Jesus Christ has created: the Global Christian Civilization— they will indeed accomplish. Just like in that story whose name I can't recall, we'll have to create shrinks for modern gods. All the power of the Good Dictator boils down to creating a Ministry of Truth, 1984-style.

They don't see it, they don't understand it; we'll laugh with the laughter of those who laugh last. Better to savor our victory with gentleness than to let the fire of our love for the Truth sweep away the enemy. They won't bring down their Dictatorship; there won't be a Civil War— take it from the son of God.

Once again:

All propaganda must be popular...

The Party's policy of mass control.

Propaganda must be adapted to the level of the least intelligent individuals at whom it is directed

To plunge the people into the abyss of mere survival. The Party, the Government, and the State form a single body; Stalinist in ideology; Hitlerian in the exercise of power.

Unbelievable but true:

The larger the mass to be convinced, the smaller the mental effort required must be.

They are such beasts that they don't even bother to try to hide the End they seek and the means they employ, because, even if they keep it quiet, the origin and source of their Mass Propaganda has as its Prototype the most accurate and criminal Decalogue in the World; created by Communism and signed by Nazism.

So we, the masses, do not even deserve a small effort; our intelligence is so inferior to that of the Nazi-Communist Party—into whose hands the gods of Brussels have placed democracy—that the Party does not even bother to include intelligent individuals in its organizational structure. NO! The inferiority of our intellects is so pitiful that, to get an idea of the wisdom of the Brussels think tank, one need only look at the passion for wealth and luxury in which the inhabitants of the palace of the European gods live: "Party, Government, and State—a Single, Indivisible Whole" is the recipe of the sages of the Fourth Reich.

Because:

the cognitive capacity of the masses is limited and their understanding is poor, and they are very prone to forgetting.

Yesterday, it might have been. And so it would be.

Today, the cognitive capacity of a single individual is unlimited compared to the collective gray matter of all the ministers and their tribes of wealth-obsessed fools selling their souls to their Good Dictator. The memory of the would-be Good Dictator is nonexistent when he forgets that by walking the path that led to a Civil War, one begins to write the Foretold Chronicle of the Second.

We neither forget nor compare our understanding to that of those who have already chartered the ship that will carry them into exile.

CHAPTER 4

Turning any anecdote, no matter how small, into a serious threat against the Party and its Leader

The integrity of the dignity of the citizen in any democracy takes precedence over all individual interests, whether physical (the government) or legal (a political party). Here we must ask ourselves what dignity is and what it has to do with the citizen of a democracy. We know that dignity has as many definitions as there are people who ponder it. To grant the dignity of a human being, for example, to a dog is to open the courts to madness.

Metaphysics has taught us to conceive of the world as a “Universal Reality” endowed with its own laws. Every ideology robs man of this capacity to conceive of this “Reality” as a fact not subject to the laws of our will.

Contrary to this free interdependence between the Universe and Man, the sumum bonum of every ideology is “Individual Reality” as the fundamental principle of the Party’s dynamics and mechanics. The goal of this Political Physics is to create an Individual fully convinced that he is the lever with which the Leader will move democracy to transform it into a Socialist Republic in the interest of National Happiness and the Supreme Joy of the Party’s Perpetual Rule.

The recent history of the democracies of the Good Hispanic Socialist Dictators sums up in a few words what a political scientist could explain by filling endless volumes of books until we are convinced of the goodness of this new type of Pancretist Dictator. Terrorist, drug trafficker, or slave owner—as long as your business benefits the Party, you are welcome in the Palace of the Gods.

Having discovered that the history of politics began when an individual wanted to be a god, and since bringing God before a court is inconceivable, bringing him—king, emperor, master, absolute lord, all in one—before a court to answer for his crimes against a law that places the citizen on equal footing with the ruler—in his mind, this amounts to heresy, which must be answered with war against the enemy, in our day, the Opposition; and having understood that madness is the virus of the spirit from which this homicidal behavior springs, we have no other response to this political pathology than the separation of state and government, abolishing all malignant exceptions to the equality of all citizens, and strengthening the institutions of justice, education, defense, and health, in the spirit of service to the freedom of all. The peace and health of humanity as a whole depend on the responsibility assumed by each and every one of us.

The History of the World is replete with “Good Dictators”; all swearing to be the one and only true Good. History shows us that the degree and level of insanity of the Aspiring “Good Dictator” is measured by the extent of his Goodness. Hitler and Stalin are the most direct historical examples. For both of them, the good of their respective nations was not enough; deluded by power, the good of the nation seemed ridiculous to them compared to the good of the universe, to which they predestined themselves for the sake of all nations. A lesson we all should have learned. Some of us have indeed taken it to heart. Unfortunately, some are like those donkeys who refuse to believe that the goat always returns to the mountain; or like the master who, against nature, believes he can teach the donkey not to stumble over the same stone; master and donkey one day fall into the same trap; they crack their heads open—who will weep at the funeral of that pair?

Politics has a history. And because it has a history, politics is a science. And like every science, politics has two sides. Science can be directed toward destruction or creation, toward good or evil; it is a personal choice. A scientist may refuse to direct his knowledge—which is his power—toward the creation of weapons of destruction, and instead direct his intelligence toward the life sciences; or he may sell his soul to the devil for fame and riches. What each person chooses reveals the effects of his power on peoples and nations.

In the science of politics, it is exactly the same. The power created by a nation has two directions. When it follows its own path: Power is at the service of the nation; when it follows a path other than its own, that Power serves the current government, at whose feet a political party kneels, used as a lever to transform the Power of Democracy into a springboard to Dictatorship. And along the way:

Turning any anecdote, no matter how small, into a serious threat against the Party and its Leader

Now, unless we’re idiots, we shouldn’t be shocked that it’s hot in the summer and it pours in the winter; but we should be outraged at those who stand by and watch as wildfires rage through the forests and hills every year. The government has a duty to take the necessary measures to reduce and control them before the fires break out. It is more characteristic of a despicable scoundrel to simply blame all-powerful forces—against which one cannot fight—such as “climate change,” as the reason for his refusal to create a policy for the regeneration and preservation of wildlife and flora.

And yet, isn’t it too much to ask a gang of information traffickers to set aside their personal interests and get down to work—which is what they’re paid to do?

All incompetent politicians blame their governments’ crises on foreign forces— on the flying donkey. It would be laughable if the collateral consequences of such impotence didn’t fall on families who lost their homes—and even loved ones—for the sake of the Divine Power of a Machiavellian Leader worshiped by a Party of parasites whose metaphysical purpose is to live without lifting a finger.

No hard work, but as many “big scores” as each person can get.

Once upon a time, in a country whose name I can’t recall, a god-like president created the Culture of the “Richness for free,” originated from the political desire to get rich overnight.

In the same country, during the good times, a successor to that god fortified the manger and distributed the meat and milk among his unconditional worshippers— the usual crowd, the showbiz set—because can there be parties without clowns, guitars, and ladies with happy endings? When the cows had nothing left but their bones, the doctor arrived—the country was in the ICU—and once the emergency doctor—the poor man without credentials—was removed, the wolf dressed as a shepherd, and through dogmatic preaching sought to make the entire country believe that the Good of the Nation lies in elevating to glory those who do nothing and enjoy everything, because as long as he is the Godoy of the Century, Progress will reign in the consciences of everyone, because happiness doesn’t come from the pocket... nor from spiders. What’s more, you will have nothing and you will be happy. Dogma of the Good Dictator of China for the global world. To whose Temple the aspiring Good Dictator goes to learn from such a Master how to remain in power and crush the opposition by converting...

any anecdote, no matter how small, into a serious threat against the Party and its Leader

And the anecdotes—when they can’t be found—are invented. That’s the advantage of having the power to be the master of newspapers, television, radio, and a party of slave-parasites who volunteer to be the heroes of one of those vignettes. This Great Corruptor isn’t looking for geniuses or sages; what he hires are second-rate artists, unemployed people with no future who are delighted to put their monologues at the service of a fool who truly believes he’s going to win the crown for free.

A serious thorn in the side of the Party and its Leader is a woman named Ayuso. Precisely because of her policies in favor of freedom and happiness in Madrid, Espronceda’s poem fits her like a glove:

With ten cannons on each side,
wind at our backs, full sail ahead,
it does not cut through the sea, but flies
a sailing brigantine;
a pirate ship they call,
for its ferocity, the Dreaded One,
across every known sea

from one end to the other.
The moon shimmers on the sea,
on the sail the wind moans and lifts, in a gentle motion, waves of silver and blue;
and there goes the pirate captain,
singing cheerfully at the stern,
Asia on one side, Europe on the other,
and over there, ahead, Istanbul;
“Sail on, my ship, without fear, for neither an enemy ship, nor a storm, nor a lull, can divert your course or dampen your courage.
We have taken twenty prizes in defiance of the English, and a hundred nations have laid down their banners at my feet.
For my ship is my treasure,
for my god is liberty,
my law, the force and the wind,
my only homeland is the sea.

Let them wage a fierce war blind kings
for another span of land, but I have here as my own as far as the raging sea extends, upon which no one has imposed laws.
And there is no beach, whatever it may be, nor flag of splendor, that does not acknowledge my right and stand up for my courage.
For my ship is my treasure,

that my god is freedom,
my law, the force and the wind,
my only homeland is the sea.

When the cry goes out, "Ship ahoy!"
it's clear to see how it turns and prepares at full speed to escape:
for I am the king of the sea,
and my fury is to be feared.
Among my prey, I divide the spoils equally:
I desire only unrivaled beauty as my wealth.
For my ship is my treasure,
that my god is freedom,
my law, my strength, and the wind,
my only homeland is the sea.

I am sentenced to death!;
I laugh;
may fortune not forsake me,
and the very one who condemns me,
I'll hang from some mast
perhaps on his own ship.
And if I fall, what is life? I've already given it up as lost, when I shook off a slave's yoke like a warrior.
That my ship is my treasure,
that my god is freedom,
my law, the force and the wind,

my only homeland is the sea.

My best music

the clatter and tremor

of the shaken cables,

from the black sea, the roars and the roar of my cannons.

And to the violent roar of thunder, and the howling of the wind,

I fall asleep, at peace, lulled by the sea.

For my ship is my treasure,

for my god is freedom,

my law, strength, and the wind,

my only homeland is the sea.”

How many anecdotes must one invent who, while it is his Duty to serve the Nation, has made it his Right to turn the State into his luxury prostitute!

The Master is generous; he hands out millions by the hundreds. Isn't it curious that all the “Good” Dictators are governed by a common denominator: creating their own TV station. Tele-Maduro, Tele-Pedro...?

An anecdote? An anecdote in the history of Spain will be that of the little shepherd boy who climbed the mountain shouting, “The wolf is coming, the wolf is coming, the wolf is coming,” and mocking all the shepherds—only to find, in the end, that the wolf really did come. He knows it, and he fights against his fate with blood and fire, because he has little time to bring his dictatorship to an end. Even as he sees the abyss ahead, the weight of his crimes drags him toward the fate written on the wall. A prudent man should have already abandoned ship, handing over command to a new captain. At least that way his mistakes might have been forgiven. Wasn't González forgiven for his own? The problem lies in the nature of this anecdote: Neither can he abandon the ship, nor will his own people allow him to abandon it; prison for his mind is prison for his body. “Let's get them”:

Turning any anecdote, no matter how small, into a serious threat against the Party and its Leader

And vice versa, turning every serious incident against the Party and its Leader into mere trifles of no journalistic interest whatsoever.

The top leaders of the nation's law enforcement agencies caught committing the crime of obstruction of justice... a trifle. Is corruption not the privilege of political power? Let the common folk know that whoever serves political power is, by default, shielded (the programs are installed by default) against crime. Although in this case, "by default" carries the meaning of "de facto."

A President's wife and his brother in court? An anecdote, a whimsical oddity! We're not going to start a civil war over a farce.

There's always time for those who want it. There's always an open door for those who recognize the madness into which they're being dragged, accept responsibility, and let history run its course. No one wants to smell the terror of gunpowder in their noses, nor feel blood running down their skin, but every man must know and be aware that, when backed into a corner, the Supreme Good is Life, the Sacred State is that of Liberty, and that against the theft of these two Divine Goods—if challenged to open war, to Civil War, especially when it is the Second—the fight is to the extermination of the Enemy.

Stories for madmen: the message from Spain's Prime Minister to the world, sending his playlist, dancing on the deaths of 100 young people who drowned in the waters off the coast of Ceuta, puts this tragedy in the spotlight as the result of an operation designed by the government itself to warn: the opposition, that opposition to the Socialist Presidency is a serious threat to its party and its leader; and the masses: that whoever holds power creates the news.

We have seen this type of manipulation of social media on other occasions in this 21st century. Thank God, what is hidden will soon come to light. In the meantime, the transformation of social media into weapons of death in the hands of those truly mad for power and wealth will continue to produce this kind of spectacle: the dead floating, and the President dancing on the graves of the innocent hooked on social media. A true character to the grave. The Socialist Party laughs at its god's joke. But it is written: He who laughs last laughs best. This is what is heard in the darkness: "Let the Third Republic be established." The Historian holds the pen in his hand. Will he dip it in blood or in ink? For I have heard it said from on high: There will be no Second Civil War; but justice will be done. Whoever loves his freedom, let him turn away from the specter of the Republic.

PRINCIPLE OF SIMPLIFICATION

Adapt a single idea, a single symbol, to identify the adversary as a single enemy

Civilization is the Universal Edifice generated by Divine Wisdom with the metaphysical purpose of establishing a Father-to-son relationship between the Creator and His Creation. The creation of immortal life implies the formation of this Life in the image and likeness of the Divine Personality of its Creator—a Personality formed and forged in the fires of His quest to create immortal life. An Infinite Knowledge of the Causes and Effects derived from the Science of Good and Evil is the Origin of the Law we read written at the Beginning of His Book. God does not even want to hear about the Fruit of that Tree, which is cursed to Him.

This passionate sentiment is comprehensible when one understands that the Fruit of the Opposition between Good and Evil is War. From this effect, it is evident that the Hatred of every Government—whether monarchical, republican, or theocratic—against Opposition to the Will of the Political Family has led, in every time and place, to the hell of Massacre. I recall Syria. Lamentations for Iran. Tears for the 300 million Christians MASSACRED by Islam in Africa, and persecuted in Asia.

No one has ever been able to prevent the descent into this cycle of slaughter and genocide. Neither in Venezuela nor in Nicaragua. The ruler who forgets that he is a man and believes himself to be a god provokes an opposition as great as his madness. The civil struggle for freedom—which had been enjoyed until then—becomes, due to the impossibility of bringing the ruler and his political family down from their criminal pedestal, turns into hatred that grows ever stronger. It was so yesterday, it is so today, and it will be so tomorrow, if we do nothing to prevent this Political Physics from being dismantled. The Good Dictator's mantra is a classic: The Opposition is Fascist.

From that First Day to the present, this disease—now genetic—has tortured the nations of the Earth, dragging countless generations to the Graveyard of the Unknown Soldier. Always the same cause. A man believes himself to be a god, infallible in thought, all-powerful in his will; he declares all the nation's human and natural resources to be his property, and, taking his pathetic wickedness to the most unforgivable: he extends his divine dominion over all the children of the people, wresting parental authority from the hands of all their fathers, as in the case of that biblical god, relying on women.

The Concept of Image and Likeness, surpassing itself, crosses the line of the impossible and declares itself Equal to God. Absolute Power has driven Reason mad, and in its omniscience has surrounded itself with a council of sages whose wisdom consists in the supreme science of Plundering the Public Treasury. How envious! The Opposition is envious. It hates the Government because it is envious of the Master of a Law hired to serve as Doorman at the Brothel of the Lions, and it is envious because the Master has managed to do what no one else did: put Justice to work as a High-Class Prostitute.

The belief in infallibility non-ex catedra always produces the same disaster: absolute corruption. It happened in the Vatican—how could it not happen in the Palace of the Gods in Brussels!

The natural opposition to slavery that every free man harbors in his heart translates into contempt for the Good Dictator. The coward who dares from within to call the Dictator by his name is paid in a different currency.

In this difference—being like God or being equal to God—lies the future of life in the universe. Let's bring it down to everyday life.

A criminal does not find his equal in an honest person. Our equal will be, and is, the one who lives under the same Code of Laws by which we govern our social behavior. The equal of the Christian was not, nor will it ever be, a man whose religious law blesses the murder of the man who does not believe in his prophetic law.

It is therefore the Law that determines the Personality of the Being, and it is this Personality that reflects the Likeness among all intelligent beings.

Equality exists among beings of the same nature. Stalin was Hitler's equal. Both saw war as the effective means of achieving the world empire that, according to their beliefs, was due to their nations as superpowers. (Ideology carries this criminal virus in its malicious code: making the host believe that his intelligence is superior to all others on the entire planet.) Whether one invokes a materialist ideology, or the other invokes a scientific ideology, the effect remains the same. The parasite dominates the host's mind.

The same is true in the religious realm: Saint Peter was the Equal of Saint Paul, but never Equal to the Son of God. The Word reached its destination: Man was created in the Image and Likeness of the Son of God.

To be equal means to have the nature of the one to whom we are equal; and we are equal to them. God's nature has its equal in His Son. The likeness to this Son is the metaphysical end contained in the Word of the Beginning. He became Man so that what men could not do, God might do in Person.

Image and Likeness that the Apostles lived out in Life and in Death. Hence, God Himself exalted them to Glory as Brothers of His Son, equal to Him in Christ. Hence, following the Doctrine of His Bride, we confess as His children: The Holy Spirit, the Third Person of the Trinity, whose Head is JESUS, whose Body is His APOSTLES, is God.

There is no idolatry. There is worship of those who surrendered their very being to God, the Father and the Son, serving them for all eternity in the governance of Creation, while we, citizens of that Kingdom, may rejoice in the wonders of Creation with the glory of freedom as those who are children of Glory.

Thus, born into the light of Equality among Citizens, whose Spirit governs Creation, and is the foundation of our Happiness—how can we possibly fathom that a madman, whose mind has been forged in the darkest underbelly of society, would come to impose his freedom upon us by crushing our equality beneath the walls of an Immunity—perverted by his Party— to turn his law into a den of thieves protected by the State!

Love for Truth, Justice, and Peace are the roots of the Tree of Civilization, whose fruits—Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity—are what make us in the image of God, our Creator. In short: it is in the Word, not in Godoy's sword, that the Essence of Man lies.

The word can be used for Truth or for Lies. Likewise, the gun can be used to defend Life or to Destroy it. But as far as we know, whoever makes the Lie his law is dragged to ruin by that very law: All his Power will never be enough to make us bend the knee before his wisdom:

To adapt a single idea, a single symbol, to single out the adversary as a single enemy

To follow this dogma, this mantra, is a violation of the very nature of a Constitution signed precisely to prevent any generation from embarking on the path of the destruction of brotherhood among the regions. A brotherhood that must inspire a Greater Brotherhood, of a universal nature. Hence the question:

Is the passion for wealth so insane that it would gamble on victory in a Civil War for the sake of someone who believes himself to be a god?

In what depraved depths of contempt for human life has this bloody, schizoid mentality been forged?

Is the intelligence of a political family so lacking that it fails to understand that sowing hatred against the Constitution is the evil seed that causes the endless wars the human race has been suffering?

Does that political family truly believe that the Good Dictator's chariot will lead them to victory against an opposition whose battle for truth and freedom is a matter of life and death?

Is the intelligence of that political family so limited that it fails to understand the message of history?

Are we citizens merely sheep born to be milked by those in power?

Will the obsolete ideology of the neo-Marxist-Leninist—aimed at seizing power through a premeditated artificial crisis, typical of South American 21st-Century Socialism, now in decline—save them from the fate they are carving out with their own hands?

The game of cops and robbers—is this the simplification of progressive democracy?

The thief reaches the police station and is saved. Is Brussels the home of the police, where all of Europe's thieves and the terrorists from its regions are spared from being pursued by the justice systems of their nations?

Why is constitutional opposition to a government labeled an "enemy"? Is it not the duty of the opposition to keep the government within the bounds of the law

Then, if the devil is recognized by his horns, what is revealed in the one who betrays his own word? Today I say yes, and tomorrow I say no. What can be revealed other than contempt for all the citizens of the nation that acclaimed him as ruler!

CHAPTER 6

PRINCIPLE OF VERISIMILITUDE

Building arguments from diverse sources through so-called trial balloons or fragmentary information

That is to say, creating a Ministry of Truth composed of newspapers and media outlets that are slaves, paid for with the money of all citizens—a treasury placed at the service of the Good Dictator—call him the Master, the Leader, the man in the image and likeness of the one who brought about the Fall of the World into the sewers of boundless corruption by firing an arrow at the Achilles' heel of Man and Woman.

It is not in vain that all living dictators make it their absolute priority to control television, radio, newspapers, and social media, and to create their own media outlets with other people's money in order to undermine the Freedom and Prosperity of the Citizens by diverting the State Treasury into the hands of their slaves.

At first, we all believed that with the spread of television and its evolution, everyone's freedom would increase because the independence of journalism would make the airwaves its ocean. How curious—soon the ocean was filled with pirate ships built in the shipyards of the Presidential Palaces!

And even though this method of tyranny found its blueprint in the classical dictatorships of the Left and of Islamic civilization, one can understand—if understanding is even possible—the crime against a nation committed by a minority that makes its will the law.

The Alliance of Civilizations came to legitimize this crime against democracy and the peoples' aspiration for freedom, a legitimization that found in the entertainment industry its most faithful ally. "Money is god" is Hollywood's dogma. Just to say something, without pointing fingers at anyone. But that a civilization rooted in a centuries-long battle against tyrants, absolutist kings, ideologues, and murderous theocracies—that this method of corruption and perversion of state powers should find a receptive audience in our civilization... is pathetic.

Centuries of fighting to raise generations of intelligent people, capable of independent judgment, and it turns out that those who promised them independence of thought—while filling their ears with utopian dreams—devoted themselves to undermining the ground beneath their feet.

How can we not bless the One who, seeing the Woman manipulated by the worst person in her world, condemned him to the exile of Solitude! He who created a civilization to be a paradise of justice laid as the foundation of the society of the fullness of nations an intellectual constitution of universal dimension, whose spirit is rooted in the law that governs our behavior, thoughts, and feelings.

In short, here we would have to ask Saint Thomas to come down and give us a hand; which wouldn't be of much use—and I would even say of no use at all—since God Himself has signed His Discourse on Moral and Ethical Personality with the Blood of His Son. From which it follows that Civilization is a Social Structure in whose Activity and growth it falls to all of us to participate. As for its Founder, the Judgment of its Creator against the one who sought to overturn those foundations and replace them with others, in which corruption would be the pillar of the pillars of the government of the peoples of Creation... the Divine Foundations must not even be touched. What is open to growth, however, is our participation in the future of our civilization. This compels us to understand that entrusting our lives to a gang of thieves is foolish. The government exists to serve all citizens. Only those who carry the soul of a dictator in their veins believe—like the one who dreamed of bringing God to his knees—that democracy is a lever with which to move the universe and transform it into their private property.

It is vital for the future of the generations already demanding a voice to break that Alliance of Civilizations between the Left and Islam, signed by and corrupt individuals—who cared nothing for the future that would follow them, even though they had children. Slaves to the law of death, without any aspirations whatsoever for eternal life, their reason that of the beasts of the jungle—and here I ask Nature's forgiveness—they were not beasts but monsters—spawned by Scientific Atheism and its Malignant Ideology of the Return to the Law of the Strong and the Weak, thus fully embracing the law of satanic Calvinist Protestantism—the reduction to nothingness of those who kill, crush, declare war, rape, and ravage human life... because everything that happens takes place because God has willed it so.

The Devil's Advocate found in Darwin the scientific pen with which to make the fruit of the Antichrist's gospel pleasing to the eye.

We see, then, that separating Religion from the Social Nature of Man is a lost battle. The further Man strays from God, the closer Man comes to the Beast.

Civilization is governed by the will of all—a will that cannot be delegated, unless we are utterly foolish. For, in fact, what is the immunity of kings if not the application of the impossibility of bringing a mentally ill person to trial and holding them accountable for acts whose nature the offender himself does not understand.

How can it be understood that this status quo is granted to individuals and families, to a political community whose intellectual health is perfectly capable of turning Democracy into a stepping stone toward Dictatorship!

The existence of this status quo confirms for all of us the deprivation of that mental soundness, by virtue of which our actions against those political families cannot be judged without the judges themselves descending into madness.

A certain contradiction that serves as a warning to all who believe themselves to be gods, and announces to them the need to abandon that path, because the pool will be emptied and the leap into the void will be without a safety net.

They say: Alea jacta est, and we respond by saying: Is it not true, Sancho, that freedom is the most beautiful of all possessions, and health the divine treasure par excellence?

With freedom reduced to a matter of survival, and health abandoned in the waiting room of one who, by smoking, tries to scare Death, let us not let the Knights of the Moon speak to us of madness as they drag those flocks—who were locked in their stalls and once again brought out to contemplate a phenomenon—into blindness; for if they knew its causes, they would have placed the shepherds, with their eyes wide open, under the magnifying glass of the eclipse.

When a society is governed by an administrator who ousts the owner and proclaims himself the sole owner, let no one weep when the rightful owner returns and reclaims what belongs to him.

Don't you see, Sancho, that man is a lion who appears to be a lamb when at rest?

The trumpets sound; soon the roar of the sleeping Sphinx will make the hypogea tremble in its wake, the stones will begin to speak in terror, and those who said, "If only the stones could speak," will regret not having swallowed their tongues.

Who will hide from the Creator of the Universe the evil designs whispered in the sewers?

Blood will gush from the earth, seeking the one who spilled it; the laughter of the jesters will be like Munch's "The Scream" in the parliaments; from the palace of the gods, demons will flee, seeking salvation in exile.

Neither God nor Man can bear this Vision any longer. We do not need to see to believe. It is enough for us to believe in what we have seen to know that things always come in threes.

All human effort is dry air over barren earth. The human word is poison masked as honey; whoever believes in it condemns themselves to suffer the worst of punishments.

The Truth needs no ministry other than Justice. Peace is not woven with terror. Brotherhood is not sewn with languages. There is no language other than that of Intelligence, in the image and likeness of the Intelligence of the Creator of the Universe. Whoever claims ownership of a region on the basis of their language declares war on the Creator of the Earth.

The Social Nature of Man has its Root in the Son of God. The Future of Man is the Unity of all Nations in a Tree of Families living in the light of the same Law of Life.

There is no alliance of civilizations founded on incompatible laws except for the purpose of destroying one of them. There is no other path but to begin walking toward that Civilization in which future generations will be free, equal, and brothers and sisters. The civilization that does not begin to leave its past behind will be buried by it.

CHAPTER 7

PRINCIPLE OF RESURRECTION

As a general rule, propaganda always operates on the basis of a preexisting foundation, whether it be a national mythology or a complex of traditional hatreds and prejudices; the aim is to spread arguments that can take root in primitive attitudes.

The worldview as it is presented to us offers a spectacle of continuous failure and constant regression in the advancement of Liberty, Equality, and Universal Fraternity. The closest thing to a society where these pillars support the growth of global intelligence is democracy. In this realm of the growth of intelligence within the human race, the myth of the individual genius has persisted as the driving force of thought. We cannot ignore the fact that access to the world of books was closed off to generations for centuries; nor should we forget that those who had access to the world of books were the bourgeoisie and the aristocracy.

The revolution in the tree of science has occurred precisely when this access has become more universal. The speed at which scientific thought is growing today is due to the open doors that the 20th century took care to maintain, in response to the manipulation of the masses by the ideologies that caused the World Wars. The catastrophe taught us that the best way to combat manipulation is to open all the doors of knowledge to intelligence. Regardless of how late the powers that be eventually relented in the face of the discovery of the revolutionary effect on the younger generations—when we became ungovernable—the effect demonstrates that the growth of global intelligence is proportional to the increase in Earth’s population: the larger the population, the greater the intelligence of the generations that follow. This is speaking from the observational standpoint of a homo sapiens rationalis; from the standpoint of a homo sapiens cristianensis, the significance of this relationship—population growth versus the increase in global intelligence—is multiplied in its power, as this relationship is fueled by the Omniscience of the One who created us to be His likeness in the spirit of intelligence.

Since our Creator is Omniscient and we are called to grow in His spirit of intelligence, it follows that, as it is impossible for an individual to rise to the level of Divine Thought, the Multiplication of the Universal Human Family seeks, from the very Beginning, to make the intelligence of all into a unified tree in which the branches of the Sciences of Creation—that is, the mastery of Matter and energy, at the level of the Nature of Origin, find their expansion in all dimensions.

Just as we know that ignorance and the denial of access to one’s own intelligence— which distorts Individual Thought through religion or ideology—is the root of all the dictatorships and tyrannies we have known, we also observe that the Infinite Evil of the New Global Ideology in force at the UN denies this Divine Relationship, and consequently has put into circulation that malevolent discourse regarding the need to murder one-third of the human race in order to keep the global economy stable.

It seems evident—as seen in Russia’s war against Ukraine—that the temptation to proceed as quickly as possible with this slaughter through a controlled atomic war has been abandoned due to the inability to control such a spectacle; an inability that was made clear during the 2020 pandemic, a dress rehearsal that terrified its own creators and defenders. Why else has the Son of Satan from the North not bombarded his Ukrainian enemy with a precision atomic barrage? It’s true, every cloud has a silver lining—or is it the other way around? It doesn’t matter; the fact is that in the fields of Ukraine, the internal opposition to the two-headed war criminal is being eliminated.

It is not a dogma; it is a fact: Every Potential Dictatorship has the Unconstitutional Duty to politically eliminate the Opposition. Duty commands; the first phase is to throw the Constitution into the fire. For example: Private Property is Inviolable—specifically, the family home. In the name of the impossibility of providing a home to immigrants, for example, we repeal the constitutional inviolability established by the Constitution; thus, what was once a crime—stealing a home from its owner—by virtue of the benevolence of the rhetoric of the patron of private security systems, we trample on the Constitution, and we conceal this crime within the discourse of the need for constitutional reform, when in reality that reform has already been carried out by declaring the Constitution to be a crime against the benevolence of the government. Which brings us to Aristotle.

The vast majority of the International Left is illiterate by vocation; they speak of Marx and Lenin but have never read either Lenin or Marx. Asking them to speak of Aristotle is to act like an idiot. The truth is that political science, like any science, is based on a study of the different forms of social structures under which peoples govern and are governed. A physicist who does not know the states of matter is a politician placed in office by his master for the sole purpose of collecting a salary for doing nothing, except for ruining ongoing research. Extend this example to the other areas of a nation’s administration, and you will understand why state-owned enterprises are sailing toward ruin.

In short, of the 195 nations on Earth, the vast majority are dictatorships and tyrannies. The UN is suffering the same fate as the Roman Empire; it has become a Babylon subject to commercial interests, so that it does not care about the genocidal and criminal nature of the state sitting at the Human Rights Table as long as the flow of gold remains active. There are nearly 300 million Christians persecuted by that vast majority of nations ruled by dictators, tyrants, and war criminals. Five million black Sudanese Christians were massacred in Sudan under the complacent gaze of the UN, that New Babylon.

Has anyone heard the cries of horror from those who applauded the massacre of Israelis in September by a state governed by a terrorist organization?

Will the UN speak out to at least call for an end to the ongoing genocide of Christians in West Africa?

From this, it is clear that the rise in power of this overwhelming majority of dictators, perpetrators of genocide, and war criminals—such as the murderous Iranian regime, which massacred tens of thousands of young people demanding freedom in February, repeating this slaughter decade after decade—and the response of the International Left with the silence it bestows, has revealed to us the true face of the signatories of the Alliance of Civilizations, headquartered at the UN. It takes two to form an Alliance of Civilizations; if one is Islam, what is the other if not the Socialist International? Who, then, is surprised that since that Alliance of Civilizations was signed, Europe and America have become the meeting place for all Muslims from Asia and Africa?

Can someone whose ideal natural society is a religious dictatorship adapt to a democratic society?

Can anyone who ideologically views the Socialist Dictatorship as their utopia coexist with a system of government and opposition in balance?

Returning to Aristotle, if he were to write his book on politics today, he would have had to live a thousand lives and still would not have reached the Epilogue. The wickedness of today's dictators today—who hide their faces behind media masks and drown out voices under a storm of incessant applause—defies all patience. Unless, that is, you are León XIV in the Spanish Congress, whose voice was buried under a circus of hired cheerleaders brought in to turn his speech into a farce.

What difference is there between the Iranian theocracy and the tyranny of North Korea?

It all depends on who is judging them. A European Foreign Affairs official, for example, spent his entire life denying that the Cuban regime was a dictatorship. And even while watching the Cuban people scavenging for food in the trash, that great European Foreign Minister—wicked from the very first day he entered politics—continued to insist that Venezuela was a democratic paradise. With that speech of his, Brussels showed the world that the palace of the gods is nothing but a nest of snakes and vipers, feeding dictatorships and strengthening tyrannies as long as they adhere to the trade relations characteristic of the Fourth Reich.

So, what is democracy? A pretty little girl who ended up as a prostitute? The springboard toward the dictatorship of the 21st-century socialist? The lever with which to shake the universe of liberty, equality, and fraternity, and cast them into the sewer?

Another example of the anti-democratic constitutional reform imposed on Europe by the Brussels Fourth Reich. Perjury is a crime rooted in the Christian Code that shaped Europe ever since the Roman legal system passed into its hands. Making perjury a constitutional right applied by law to a segment of society is the most powerful assault on democracy ever carried out. Democracy is based on the equality of all citizens, man or woman, before the law. But if the government nullifies the application of this foundational law of democracy for the benefit of women... what happens to equality?

The evil of the Brussels Fourth Reich knows no bounds. It uses women, just as Satan did in his day, to tear down one of the three fundamental pillars upon which democracy has been built: making false testimony legal. A woman can falsely accuse a man without being guilty of a crime.

In conclusion, what is a democracy? Is it government of the people by the people, or is it government of the people by the worst of the people? To govern or to be governed? For having been created in the image and likeness of God, man cannot be governed by another man; he can only be governed by God. A man governed by another man becomes a slave to the one who governs him. If man needs to be governed by another man, then man does not possess within his nature the Seed of the Intelligence of his Divine Creator. What difference is there between the slave and the free when the one who governs is a potential criminal and the one who is governed is an active fool? Is there perhaps any law in the Divine Social Code that gives the key to hell to a man and casts his flesh into the fire?

The evil branch of Protestantism, mother of all churches rooted in Calvinism, answers that yes, God creates some with a star and the others he brings into the world already star-less. But Calvin was the Devil's Advocate insofar as he presented before the court of fools the speech that Satan delivered before the children of God, accusing God of creating Adam to be crushed and Satan, who was given the boots to carry out the crushing. Or does God's Prescience and Omniscience not imply this very argument?

It was not in vain that God abolished all power; He has given us His Son as Universal King. For only the Creator can govern His Creation and invite us to participate in the same Project of Civilization governed by a Universal Law. And He shapes us in His spirit to abhor any law invented by a dictator who exposes us to: living on our knees or dying with our boots on.

We do not have to search for the answer. We saw the answer firsthand as Jesus Christ ascended the Cross. From this, it follows that since the Thought of God and that of Man operate on different planes, the ignorant cannot comprehend the wise. The wonder lies in the intelligence deployed to bring forth our "Yes" to a Civilization whose government rests not in any man but in God Himself.

In conclusion: Dictatorship and tyranny are defined by the same behavior, which is none other than detesting the Law of Nature and abhorring the Code of Divine Social Behavior, whose Fatherly Law extends to and encompasses all Peoples, regardless of their Origin in Space or their Beginning in Time, the Spirit of whose Law is written: "Love God your Creator above all things, and your neighbor as yourself."

How can I love my neighbor—man or woman—if that neighbor lives under a criminal law that allows them to bear false witness against me!

Once this Fundamental Pillar of Democracy has been toppled, which one will be next?

The author of the First Manual of Resilience, Adolf Hitler, found the key to the door to that second pillar:

As a general rule, propaganda always operates on the basis of a preexisting foundation—whether it be a national mythology or a complex of traditional hatreds and prejudices— its aim is to spread arguments that can take root in primitive attitudes.

What could be more primitive than resurrecting the hatred buried in the catacombs of a civil war? What could be more traditional than believing oneself superior to one's neighbor? The man of the Left, the superman, the chosen one of the gods of the Darwinian beast, the strong one, the lawless lawmaker, the corruptor without morals, the liar without honor, dignity, or shame—his will is law. The Leader, the Master, the lord of the progressive beasts—his word is law, his will is god; whoever rebels against his project is banished from his divine presence, whomever kneels and drinks milk from the trunk of the white elephant is elevated to the Olympus of the gods.

What could be more traditional than the trap of hatred toward immigrants? But to create this hatred, one must tear down the gate of international law governing the movement of criminals between nations.

The Alliance of Civilizations is the spearhead of the destruction of one's own civilization in the name of the integration of the immigrant civilization. This was the theory of the Left. From Southern to Northern Europe, 50 years later, those same Leftists are facing the natural reaction to every action. The reaction has roused the International Right from its slumber. The Left wants to crush it by accusing it of fascism. It's laughable—the very same person who stabs you in the back declares himself your doctor.

Every action produces a reaction, and science tells us that the reaction caused by the action is unstoppable until it completes its cycle. The Dictator believes his dictatorship will last a lifetime; he does not read, does not see, is deaf—because if he knew how to read, see, and listen, he would know that every beginning has an end, and that the question is how he will face the beginning of his end. Those who applauded the September Massacre, those who refused to play a leading role in the Fall of the Criminals of the February Massacres, are towers that will collapse upon all those who are found worshiping men who have believed themselves to be gods.

To each his own. He who steps aside in time will live by his prudence; he who remains on his knees before his idol will not know the mercy of Justice. For how can he who did not repay be forgiven? But he who repays will, by his Repayment, be judged according to mercy. Word of the Holy Spirit, engraved in stone in the small park of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris: "There can be NO forgiveness without retribution."

Man must not allow himself to be dragged into a civil war, nor must he fear a civil war; but if one is declared, there is no land in heaven, nor heaven on earth, where those who sought it can hide.

CHAPTER 8

PRINCIPLE OF TRANSPOSITION

*Blame your own mistakes on your opponent, responding to an attack with an attack;
if you can't avoid bad news, make up other news to distract her*

Freedom is not a Right. Freedom is a Divine Value enjoyed by the Being of Man from the moment of his Birth. Man has been created free by an Act of Divine Freedom. This Divine Freedom to Create Life in His Own Image and Likeness is the Origin of Man's Freedom.

If Freedom were a right, this would mean that we are not born free, and, consequently, this right to freedom—as a duty of the government—could be revoked at will.

Freedom is a Natural Value rooted in the Creator's Freedom to Create Life in His Image and Likeness. And as a Value inseparable from Being—its Root being Divine Freedom—Freedom is defended with blood and fire when Necessity calls for it.

Freedom is wrested by fire and blood. And it is defended by blood and fire.

God has willed that, in order to uphold the value of freedom in Being and prevent the invocation of the right to defend life and freedom from arising out of necessity, our Creator has chosen to give us a physical body, established as a legal entity, whose duty is to take the right of the Being of Freedom as a sacred end: This is the State, whose duty is to stand between the Thief of the Soul of Freedom and Man's Right to defend his Freedom, which is his Life.

Thus, Freedom is a Value, and we call it a Right to defend this Value against every murderous beast, born Sapiens, but whose Reason has been driven mad as a result of its obsession with Power and Wealth—an egomaniacal disease against whose pathology Society has the right to defend itself and the duty to rise up to bring about its cure, with the sacred aim of eradicating that malignant gene from the very being of Man.

Therefore, having distinguished Freedom as a Value and its Defense as a Right, through Wisdom our Civilization has been endowed with a Legal Entity with a physical body, which we call the State, in which the right to enjoy and defend freedom becomes, in its hands, an existential right of constitutional compliance; failure to comply with this creates the concept of high treason against its duty to God and its people.

Therefore, whoever maintains that it is a political duty to uphold our right to freedom argues that our freedom is not a divine value, and by asserting that freedom is not inherent in our being, maintains—contrary to nature—that we are free by virtue and grace of the Government's Power, in the exercise of which it can and has the Legitimate Constitutional Right to deprive the Citizen, in whole or in part, of the Natural Liberty that, by the Grace of Divine Power, dwells in Man from the Day the Word was heard in Heaven and on Earth: “Let us Man in our image and likeness.”

In fact, we have before our eyes two interpretations of the Nature of Liberty.

The malicious one is that which invokes the Word to elevate the creature to equality with its Creator. And it asks: Can God’s freedom be oppressed, curtailed, deprived of its essence, and isolated from His will?

The answer to the riddle is this: Having been created in His image and likeness, where is the Creator’s glory if, because of our freedom, He loses His own?

That is the Evil Discourse that dragged Mankind into the global fratricidal war that the human race has been suffering for approximately six thousand years.

Was freedom, as a natural value, suspended by the prohibition against eating the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil?

The other argument is that of those who, deprived of the State—that is, of the duty of a body of mediation between two brothers—die because of the absence of this State, whose sacred duty is the defense of human freedom, and never, ever Obedience to the Will of a Government, assuming that the Citizen’s Freedom is a Grace that the Government can revoke whenever and however it pleases.

For, as we have already seen in the history of our civilization, the response of the Soul of Liberty to such absolutist “grace” is revolution. Against the Civil War with which a government challenges the citizen—a response that we have seen cause rivers of blood to flow—the question is: Out of fear of the Civil War with which we are challenged, must we choose slavery in life over freedom under open-prison conditions? Is the prostitute free, with her door open but her pockets empty, to live as she pleases? Someone will have to answer for having chosen this “freedom” of an open-door brothel over the freedom of full democracy.

Will we renounce the value of freedom and the defense of our very being out of fear of the terror of a civil war that gives wings to a government—given the civilized spirit of the citizen—to legitimize the annulment of freedom on the basis of artificial circumstances created by those in power?

What crime does a state commit—both as a legal entity and as a physical body—when it washes its hands of responsibility by placing the citizen’s freedom at the feet of a political party?

In what criminal act does the will of a government manifest itself when it uses artificially created circumstances to curtail, in part or in whole, the divine value of citizens’ freedom?

And ultimately, when this State—into whose hands the Right to the very Essence of Freedom is entrusted—betrays its Duty, is the defense of Revolutionary Freedom illegitimate?

*To blame one's own mistakes on the adversary, responding to an attack with an attack;
if bad news cannot be avoided, invent other news to distract from it*

A government that, from its very legislative inception, has been engaged in a direct, head-on attack against the opposition—is it not secretly aiming to create these necessary conditions to legitimize the transformation of its power into the Supreme Source of Liberty?

Has it not been written for centuries that the Republic is the government of the best in the various branches of the administration?

From which it follows that the Anti-Republic is the government of the worst individuals in the nation, precisely because, deprived of the wisdom that comes from experience in the branches of the science of national administration, and possessing no greater wisdom than the ambition to amass the greatest amount of wealth in the shortest possible time—how can the Republic, governed by a team of incompetents, be expected to grow in the Innate Values of the Human Being: Liberty, Equality, Intelligence, Industry, Technology, and the Sciences!

Are not those who elected them—precisely because of their absolute lack of wisdom in the fields of administration—guilty of the consequences of that choice?

From this it follows that, given the Democratic Opposition's response to a Republic founded on the sole values of the ambition for wealth and unlimited submission to the will of a leader, that government centers its policy on using the state to oppose the opposition, continually accusing it of being unable to do anything because of the opposition. This leads to:

Shifting the blame for one's own mistakes onto the adversary, responding to an attack with an attack.

And what is even more pathetic:

if you can't avoid the bad news, make up other stories to distract her

“Let there be the Invasion of Ceuta.”

And let everyone forget about Cerdán, Koldo, Leire, and the other members of the Gang of 40 Thieves, handed over by their own boss in accordance with a scorched-earth policy. Locked up in prison, with the key to their cell in the pocket of the Gang's second-in-command—let them talk to the walls!

Come up with other distractions

Fighting climate change by leaving the land vulnerable to fires through bans on clearing forests, caring for the woods, and closing off areas to wild animals...

The Anti-Republic is called 21st-Century Socialism,

CHAPTER 9

PRINCIPLE OF THE METHOD OF CONTAGION

Group the various adversaries into a single, unified enemy category. The adversaries must be constructed by creating an individualized summa

The Values of the Intelligence of the Creator of the Universe are the Source from which all Right, Law, and Justice emanate. Human Nature is Social beyond scientific ideology. Creation in the image and likeness of the Creator implies this.

In this context, Civilization is the Coexistence of the Fullness of nations in a Universal Society governed by the same Internal Values, inseparable from the Values of its Creator, all the more so since this Creator is an Almighty and Indestructible Being whose Spirit is governed by a Wisdom whose moral and social principles form the backbone of His Personality. Inspired by His Wisdom, all the citizens of His world rejoice in this marvelous Personality who became man in Jesus Christ so that the ignorance of illiteracy might understand through His works what it could not have comprehended through the words of the wise.

To invent personal values based on individual or group interests that clash with the Personality of the Creator is, and means, to create a conflict whose outcome can be none other than Exile. To believe that in a Universe created by this Almighty and Omnipotent Being there can be room for an enemy of the Personality of this Creator is the manifestation of a schizoid suicidal pathology projecting its self-destruction onto Society as a whole; the motto of this schizoid personality we have heard far too many times to forget its declaration: "I would rather set the world on fire than live in a world governed by a law contrary to my own will and truth."

The medieval struggles between the Church and the Empire had their origin in this fatal clash. The modern world wars had their beginning in the struggle of Reason against Faith. It is one thing for a madman to drag his being into hell, but for someone to allow themselves to be dragged along by the egomaniacal madness of a personality lacking universal moral value!... it is pitiful. For this reason, cultivating one's own intelligence from the root of the Intelligence of the Creator of the Universe is vital to averting the fire of madness from our nations.

In this Dogma of the Good Dictator, we find the definition of his absolute madness:

To group the various adversaries into a single, unified category of individual enemies.

Is this what the government is seeking? To turn power into a weapon of war against anyone who seeks to remove it from government? What is the mindset of those who turn that power into a weapon of war against their fellow countrymen? To seize the government in order to corrupt the very nature of democratic power by sowing hatred toward the constitutional opposition?

Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity.

With Freedom curtailed for the sake of survival, and Equality corrupted by a macabre law that distorts its very essence, how can Fraternity be left hanging in the air! It is destroyed by casting the Opposition as “the enemy”; hatred is sown against the constitutional opposition to the government; hatred is unleashed against that “enemy” from the very first day, growing as the years go by, and intensifying the more slaves kneel to swallow elephants and choke on mosquitoes.

There is no doubt: what brought victory to Nazism and Communism must lead the Good Dictator to victory. It does not matter that socialist regimes reveal to the world the wretched terror of their dictatorships; the aspiring Good Dictator always blames the Internal Enemy and creates an External Enemy to justify the failure of his mentors and foretell the triumph of his project.

The soul, just like human flesh, is bought and sold. There are always utter nobodies willing to sell their souls; the more submissive they are, the higher they rise; the more they bark, the richer they become. It is the oldest story in the world: the cowards and the ambitious, incapable of earning their place in the world, betray their people and their nation for thirty silver coins.

The adversaries must build themselves up by creating an individualized sum

Obviously, at first they're treated as different, then that line is gradually blurred, and in the end, they're all fascists. The buzzword of our time: Fascism.

The Opposition is fascist!!

The tribe in power must repeat this mantra night and day—the only way to eliminate the Opposition, first politically and finally physically. Is it believable that anyone who launches a campaign of hatred against the Opposition in a democracy will not carry out their crime by leading the nation into war?

The dream of every good dictator is the madman who rises to be the savior of the freedom that he himself destroyed.

History, and not just the history in books, but Living History, lays bare before our eyes the failure of socialism both in Europe and in Latin America. The ruin they are heading toward puts a single cry on their lips: “The Fascists are coming.” They are the fascists. Enemies of Liberty, they impoverish everyone; enemies of Equality, they place themselves above the law; they hate the Fraternity that makes us all children of the same Civilization, whose Metaphysical Foundations are Divine in Nature.

They foster hatred between regions, rely on pro-terrorist organizations, and sell ministerial posts to anyone who can pay for them and is willing to defend the “Good Dictator’s Project” to the bitter end: to create a final crisis by virtue of which the entire rule of law can be suspended in the name of saving democracy.

What will it be : a Kingdom or a Republic?

We’ll soon find out.

CHAPTER 10

Convincing many people that you think “like everyone else” by creating an impression of unanimity

Creation is based on the Principle of the conception of a personalized, individualized, and unique work in which the Creator projects His genius onto Matter, endowing it with Animated Life in His image and likeness in the spirit of intelligence.

In the case of the Creation of the Human Race, the Vital Principle—the Origin of Man—arises from the Creator’s Need to give His World a Being in which the Divine Thought regarding the Nature of what Civilization is may find its Temple and its Castle.

The divisions that ravaged the peace of the peoples created by our Creator to enjoy Eternal Life in His world were based on the distortion of Divine thought regarding the nature of the relationship between the Creator as Father and His Creation as son. That is to say, a relationship not based on power, but a relationship based on the spirit of natural intelligence inherent in God.

Obviously, Creation in the Image and Likeness of God implies the Intelligence of the Creator as the Source of Universal Thought, regardless of the Origin in Space and Time of the Peoples called to enjoy Eternal Life. One Creator, One Universal Spirit.

This Universal Thought is the Principle of Man. For this reason, in relation to the world that emerged from the Fall, we read that “Man was naked.” For Man was not created for war; he was created so that his Thought might be the Living Incarnation of the of the Creator regarding the Nature of a Civilization founded upon the Victory of God over Death in the Cosmos, Man felt no shame in what he lacked; his glory was Wisdom.

We know, because we see it every day and it has been the bread and butter of every century since the First Man fell into the Malignant Error of believing himself Superior to all other men, that every People Endowed with an Immortal Soul has been founded upon Eternal Values, whose Source is the spirit of their Creator. The Equality of all Citizens of the Universe before the Law is the Cornerstone of the entire Edifice of Civilization in the Kingdom of God. Man’s Fall into the Denial of this Principle was the Cause of the Civil War that ended in his Exile.

Even as a child of God, the violation of equality between king and citizen, between ruler and ruled—of which the existence of the Body of Justice is a living expression... even as a child of God, to consider oneself a citizen superior to his fellow men by virtue of the hierarchy necessary to society, is the crime that rightfully earned the sentence set forth in the Magna Carta of a civilization created to endure for eternity.

This crime of believing oneself superior to others by virtue of the social hierarchy was the cause of the ruin of the kingdom of the First Man, whose crime spread to all generations and peoples of the human race, which fell into a hell ruled by criminals, each and every one of them proclaiming themselves gods—some openly, others covertly—but all spreading their boundless evil over all the peoples of the Earth: Civil Wars, International Wars, Religious Wars, , dictatorships, theocracies, tyrannies... all these evils are the result of a single Flaw: Violating the Law of Supreme Equality before the Justice of all Citizens, regardless of their place in the social hierarchy.

For this reason, Mankind, ever since it began to rise from the ashes in Greece, has manifested its glory in Thought—a Universal Thought in which Peace and Freedom arise from Equality among all citizens.

The Equality of every Citizen, regardless of their Language, their Country, or their place in Society, is Supreme and Superior to the hierarchy.

A social system founded on a law of parliamentary immunity condemns itself to corruption, and corruption condemns us all to slavery.

Voluntary subjugation to a system—whether religious, monarchical, or ideological—is the essence of cowards. Dictatorship is the weapon of the ignorant, who, believing themselves superior to all other men, establish their conquest of power through the suppression of equality between government and citizen—a guarantee for transforming their corruption into an invincible flaw inherent in democracy.

Succeeding in convincing many people that they think “like him” by creating an impression of unanimity “all over the world” is a crime against the freedom and lives of all citizens, Convincing everyone of the invincibility of this defect of power, by extending this fact to the political family upon which their government is sustained, can produce no other effect than the ruin of freedom—a ruin inherent in all the socialist regimes of the world in which slavery was a sign of survival, and opposition worthy of imprisonment and silence.

The cure for this pathology begins with the antidote of equality—that is, the invincible abolition of all forms of immunity from the law, beginning with parliamentary immunity.

This immunity, inherited from kings of all times and places, is the malignant virus that reproduces, century after century, millennium after millennium, the same evil: civil war, political dictatorship, and the enslavement of peoples to the will of the genocidal ruler of the moment. The climax of their madness is: throwing the opposition onto the battlefields so that the external enemy may annihilate them, as in the case of the war between Russia and Ukraine.

It is the existence of this Law of Governmental Immunity to steal, kill, and enslave, through the invention of fictitious enemies upon whom to shift the blame for the evils produced by a team of impotent intellectuals, whose only genius lies in mastering the science of lies and whose field of wisdom is that of corruption—and because their first line of defense is to shield themselves against Equality, declaring themselves superior to all citizens—it is this Law that, toppled by the First King of the Earth, condemned all peoples to the History written in the Book of Life of the Human Race.

We see the effects of this Crime on paper and in life in the murderous Terror of those who make a Language a Supreme Value that elevates them above the rest of their neighbors, claiming, for example, to have an extra gene—as in the Basque case— and that gene may well be the Devil's gene. In the Catalan case, this leads to the declaration that the Spanish people are a sub-race, and that genetically intermingling with them results in a degeneration of the superior Catalan culture—a statement denying the pathological effects of inbreeding, endorsed by the University of Barcelona.

These discourses may be as varied as they are criminal, but they all share the same target: to deny the equality of all citizens before the law, the consequence of which is to deny brotherhood among all nations.

Thus, those who claim the need for a dictatorship based on their ideological or racial superiority, denying the equality of all men, reject fraternity among all peoples, thereby opting for the most entrenched criminal ideology recorded in history: Nazism. Is it any wonder that they accuse those who are not what they are of being exactly what they themselves are?

convincing many people that they think “like everyone else”

But to convince many people—as many as necessary to crush equality, banish brotherhood, and turn freedom into a pipe dream—in addition to the absolute power of those who treat regions as prostitutes at their service, the nation as a brothel, and the police as their corps of doormen and internal security—not to mention the corruption through which those who sell themselves are bought—it takes time.

To create an impression of unanimity...

... it requires long-term planning. And yet, repeating a lie ad infinitum is not enough to make the truth of those who govern the nation as if it were a brothel—and the regions as their slaves—the truth for everyone.

A government that wants to make its lie everyone's truth needs to bring justice to its knees, put it to work sexually like an obedient prostitute whose job is to spread her legs and swallow everything that comes into her mouth.

And this is where the real battle for the Dictatorship of the 21st-Century Spanish Socialist begins.

Must we sacrifice Equality and Freedom to the Progressive Government of the Good Dictator?

The Good Dictator does not drag the People along by fire and sword. What is the whip of Taxes for?

The Good Dictator's Paradise is to lead the flock to the fields of Survival. What is Freedom if the citizen cannot buy a house, go on a trip, see the world?

Paying for every step taken, forbidding the next, turning the citizen's sweat into Ali Baba's Cave and his 40 thieves, the police—a criminal gang at their service, prosecutors and judges as the gateway to prison for the rebels... the Utopia of the Good Socialist Dictator, the sweet dream of every criminal clan: the State as a Whore.

Man has two models to choose from:

Equality before the Law, embodied in the Cross of the One who, though Almighty, knelt before the Spirit of Justice of the Creator of all, and though God, His Father, made Himself equal to any other man; or the superiority of those who believe themselves to be above the law, and use power to create a world tailored to their own needs—a government of thieves, a government of corruption, a government of pimps spewing hatred day and night against those who hate to see their nation treated like a luxury brothel at the service of an association of traffickers in human flesh.

It is difficult for a country to sustain democracy when the terrorist mentality, the mentality of racial superiority, and the corrupt mentality of a political dynasty conspire to turn the nation into their own Cave of Ali Baba.

To convince many people that they think "like everyone else," creating an impression of unanimity.

How will they manage to convince us to think like them?

Because we don't think like them—we are Christians—in their eyes, we are fascists.

Still, the swan's finest dance is its last. The question is: Should we wait for the dance to end, or should we all walk out of the theater and put an end to the performance before blood is shed?

CHAPTER 11

Propaganda must be limited to a small number of ideas and repeat them relentlessly, presenting them over and over again from different perspectives but always converging on the same concept without any cracks or doubts...

... because a lie repeated ad infinitum eventually becomes the truth.

One: The Opposition is Fascist.

Two: The Opposition is fascist.

Three: The Opposition is fascist.

All together: The opposition is fascist.

Present the idea from different perspectives.

Bring together all the non-fascist parties—regardless of whether some have terrorist roots, others supremacist origins, or even extraterrestrial origins—what else matters! “The differences that separate them are overcome by the interest that unites them” : The Power to Plunder the Public Treasury, each with their own particular goal but all as one, like good allies, dividing up the spoils of war conquered through Lies.

And this is where we were meant to arrive: What is the Lie? If this enigma is not solved, it seems impossible to know what the Truth is.

Certainly... “it seems”... but that is an irrational fallacy, carefully crafted to maintain the legitimacy of the Lie as law in a lawless jungle where Power legislates. Let’s see what I mean.

The first Lie cast into the world in the history of Earth was this: “You will be like gods...”

I don’t know if there’s anyone in this 21st-century world who believes themselves to be a god simply because they have full knowledge of good and evil. I know—because I see it—that Power makes individuals feel “like gods.” But that’s their problem.

What matters is the effect of the Lie. In short, the conclusion tells us that the Lie is intended to bring ruin to the one who cooks it, and death to the one who eats it—even if they’re unaware of the poison in the recipe—the dish that’s served.

The Lie, based on Experience, originates from Concealing a Crime: planned to achieve a specific End.

Before the Lie, there is the resolute will to carry out a specific Crime which, if known to others, could never be carried out. Hence, the Party needs to create a Lie behind whose mask it can hide the true nature of the Goal it hopes to achieve by seizing control of the Administration.

“The Opposition is Fascist” is merely the propaganda with which the Party shields itself from judgment regarding the lie that propelled it to power.

Propaganda is used by those in power. The lie is the weapon of conquest for that power. Without that power, propaganda is not credible. To attain that power, the lie is created: an electoral platform that is thrown into the trash after the electoral victory has been secured.

This is where the nature of the Lie is revealed to us, its true spirit: to attain governmental power in order to betray the nation by creating decree-laws that absorb the body of the state, nullify its laws, and bring it to its knees.

This type of Lie would have no standing if the State were to link the Electoral Platform to the crime of treason against the Constitution.

Because this and that were said, and betrayal of the electoral promise is a crime (deceiving the nation with promises never intended to be kept, and using democracy as if it were a prostitute enslaved to the will of a family of pimps), the Sword of Justice has a duty to be drawn and to summon the perpetrators of the Great Lie before its court.

Time is of the essence when the Good Dictator must bring to a close his work of making the Lie the fundamental law of the state. “Deception is not a crime. Lying is a political tool.”

Having defined what Propaganda and the Lie are—and understanding that there can be no Propaganda if the Lie has not achieved victory, we discover in real life that the need to gather circumstantial enemies around the Good Dictator’s table entails the need to finance the media of Propaganda in accordance with the resistance of the “Fascist,” who grows stronger the more he is attacked.

As witnesses to an anti-democratic war waged by the Treasury against the Legitimate Opposition, we understand that the purchase of mass media slaves in the service of the Good Dictator’s Propaganda reveals his nervousness; hence the dialectical virulence of the Socialist Family (communists, pro-terrorists, independence supremacists) stokes the fire of its allies, and the winds of defeat for the Good Dictator’s dream—to make the Government, the State, and the Party his lifelong body—begin to turn into a hurricane.

The cry of civil war from the specter of communism is then heard from the grave: “Let’s go get them.”

Experience, the mother of science, knows how to extract from sweat and blood the balm and honey with which the Future must be nourished by the Present, and protected from the Past by creating a Criminal Law against Treason against the that involves a Supreme Court with constitutional authority to declare the Government of Lies outlawed, exclude all its members from the world of politics, and transfer the government to the Opposition until the end of the legislative term.

The Fundamental Law for the Future Happiness of Nations must be upheld by the State in its entirety, through the establishment of an irrevocable and incorruptible separation between Government and State.

The government changes hands; the state remains in the hands of the people who created the nation.

THOU SHALT NOT LIE.

God's response to this conflict—as old as Cain's fratricide—is offered to us in the episode of Mary and her Son at the wedding in Cana. "Woman, my hour has not yet come."

God speaks to His Son through the voice of His Creation. She says to Him: "Fill the jars."

There is no need to resort to Dogmatic Theology: "The Father is greater than I." Hence, when speaking of His Offspring, He said: "He will take what is mine and make all things known to you. Everything the Father has is mine. That is why I have told you that He will take what is mine and make all things known to you."

Conclusion:

We must all live in the light of that Wisdom of which God says: "I was formed..."; in which it is revealed to us that the Formation of His Personality is Eternal and Perfect.

We understand that Wisdom and God became one in the Creator of all things.

We— how can we impose individual needs against or above the Universal Good! It is hard to say, but it is even harder, being Almighty, to accept the Cross.

The Jesus-Christian Code was sealed with His words: "Peter, put your sword back into its sheath..." A law that His Disciples followed to the letter. An example of Immortal Faith that has endured centuries and millennia and knocks at the door of every man and woman: That Jesus Christ of Yesterday remains "The One who was, the One who is." The Declaration of Life has been sealed: "Love God with all your strength and your neighbor as yourself." This is the Law of Immortality.

"Mother, my Hour has not yet come."

It is God who sets the Hour. And who proclaims it through the mouth of His Creation:

"Do whatever He tells you."

For this reason, man must listen to the servant of God.

LET'S RECALL THE FIRST OF THE DOGMAS OF THE GOOD DICTATOR.

Propaganda must be limited to a small number of ideas and repeat them tirelessly... presented over and over again from different perspectives... but always converging on the same concept without any cracks or doubts... because a lie repeated ad infinitum eventually becomes the truth.

Is there a greater crime against the Nation and the peoples that comprise it than a Party that makes of the Lie—that is, of the betrayal of its Electoral Platform—its main weapon to seize the Government, from which its members will set out to appropriate the Powers of the State?

Can one conceive of a greater betrayal than a state legitimizing the betrayal of the spirit of democracy and bringing itself to its knees before its government for some thirty miserable bags of silver?

In the event of a civil war, would not all those in power be brought before military tribunals?

How can a nation watch as, step by step, the Good Dictator approaches the edge of the lever, from which he will proclaim the end of democracy, and remain idle?

Is it not the mission of the branches of government to defend the nation from enemies both foreign and domestic?

Hasn't history laid bare the lesson of the fratricidal danger posed by the enemy within?

Shouldn't all citizens rise up to tear down that lever of assault leading from Democracy to the Dictatorship of Socialism?

If lying is a crime in the eyes of the law, are politicians not accountable to any form of justice—human or divine?

If premeditation to commit a crime is a crime under the law, isn't an electoral platform designed to deceive an entire nation covered by this code?

If repeating a lie ad infinitum makes it the truth, is it any wonder that that government pays media outlets, networks, and organizations that act as echo chambers for the same lie?

Therefore, it is not the Constitution that needs to be reformed; it is democracy that must be defended against the assault of organized criminals whose sole aim is to become immensely wealthy in the shortest time possible.

EPILOGUE

The line of thought from the late 19th century gave rise to a system of social organization based on mass psychology. Translated into plain language: a totalitarian system based on reducing the value of the Personalized Being—the Man with life in himself—to the status of a head of cattle, an individual whose intelligence is not activated against the manipulation of his mind, as if his brain were a field owned by the State.

The World Wars of the 20th century had as their all-powerful weapon ideological systems destined to face each other to the death from the very origin of each and every one of them. The political premises from which the fratricidal ideologies grew— ideologies that settled their fate on the battlefields of the world wars— had their sources in specifically distinct psychological currents; but the horizon each one contemplated was the same: victory—control over the dissolution of the Individualized Man into a herd of humans: State Property (“Your children belong to us,” in the words of the PSOE; search the newspaper archives).

Enslaving the mass-individual to the confines of a system of perception of Universal Reality, created for the sole purpose of turning him into the recipient of Propaganda articulated from Unmistakable General Ideas, was never anything new; all ancient and medieval religions based their endurance in Time on the multiplication of the Prototype designed in their sacred texts. The novelty experienced by the 20th century was the projection of that system onto Political Science.

Here, in Europe with its Catholic roots, the Idea of Human Happiness—beyond the historical distortions through which the growth of Thought toward a Universal Intelligence was confronted, century after century, with the of the aristocratic classes, always sought to give birth to a civilization based on the divine value of the human being, whose personality has its prototype in Jesus Christ.

The foundational pillar upon which this Divine Prototype is based is the Intelligence inherent in the Creator of humankind—an Intelligence activated since Creation to recreate, in the Mirror of human Thought, the true structure of the Universe. From this Jesus-Christian platform, the conception of Man involves us all in the growth of an Intelligence whose branches encompass all the sciences; Political Science, due to the extension of its laws to nations, is of vital importance.

The discovery of the laws of all sciences stems from Experience. The laboratory from which the laws of Politics, as a Science, emerge is the Universal Memory of Nations.

History tells us that turning Political Science into the Art of Plundering the Nation’s Treasury necessitates the transformation of Democracy into a Dictatorship in order to sift out the chaff once the sacred cow of the State has been reduced to bones. (Recall the cases of Zapatero, Papandreou, Mitterrand, Cratxi...)

Science and Art are two parallel worlds; they see each other, they touch, but they must not be confused. When politicians turn to the laws of Art and turn their backs on the Science of Administration, corruption begins.

Likewise, we observe that when the artist becomes a scientist, science fiction is born. The fatal problem for civilization begins when the scientist confuses science with art and creates a fictional universe endowed with its own laws—invented to bury, beneath the slab of a boneless universe, his failure to recreate in his mind the true astrophysical edifice of reality. Within this bubble, any law is possible; Power becomes a trophy up for grabs by whoever knows how to make the Lie their War Horse.

Unlike Christian Homo sapiens, for whom the End determines the nature of the Means—just as the Founder of the Social Ideology of Christianity demonstrated by his Example—the rest of the social systems, in pursuit of whose ends the world wars were waged, based their strength on the renunciation of the inherent equality between the End and the Means. This renunciation, which remained active throughout the feudal ages, rose to unbearable heights in Modern Absolutism, found a respite in the dream of the French Revolution, and returned to the stage of imperial wars in the very heart of the 20th century.

Man as an End in himself—the realization of whose Being is the cornerstone upon which the Liberty of the Intellect is carved before its Creator—became a chimera at the feet of Communism and National Socialism. At the beginning of the 20th century, man became a means, a lever, a vote, a number, a head of cattle upon which to launch the conquest of Totalitarian Power.

The Jesus-Christian metaphysics of man as the end in itself of life on Earth was demolished by the Socialist ideology that viewed the worker as a pawn on the chessboard of political parties in open struggle for power.

Ergo, the worldview of scientific atheism divided the world into two classes, that of the Strong and that of the Weak, in its modern form: the Poor and the Rich. Scientific Atheism sold man to the alpha wolves of the murderous jungle into which its Great Apostasy transformed the world.

I HAVE NOT COME TO BRING PEACE TO THE EARTH, BUT A SWORD

Many people continue to be scandalized by these words of the Son of God. And it's understandable. Anyone who does not possess the Mind of Jesus Christ cannot understand how HE, being all PEACE, could bring the Sword into the world.

But who brought War to Earth?

Should God respond to War against His Law with flowers, kisses, and blessings? Will we allow ourselves to be slaughtered by the Devil to prove that we are children of God because we are peaceful?

The contradiction is plain to see. Even before His Birth, it was written: “He will be a sign of contradiction.”

Once again, “faith that is corrupted”; what corrupts it if not ignorance of the Reason and Cause for which God sent us His Son with the Sword of Justice in His hand?

Let’s begin.

5,786 years ago, a war to the death was declared against God as Lawgiver. The scandal shook the Heavens!

A son of God—created, not uncreated, begotten in the flesh of his world—dared to sound, over the corpse of his younger brother, Adam, the horn of war without quarter against the equality of every citizen before justice.

It is not necessary to explain how it affected the Creator of the Universe that a creature to whom He had bestowed animate life dared to sign, with the blood of his young son, a Declaration of War to the Death against His Justice.

That marked a turning point.

A Final Revolution had to be carried out within the Empire of Creation. Such madness must never be repeated throughout Eternity.

Certainly, but why did God wait so long? Why didn’t He crush him right then and there?

God has the Power to raise the dead. It would have been enough for Him to raise Adam from the grave of his Ignorance, banish the Traitor from Eden, cast him into the Abyss shrouded in Darkness, on the other side of the Cosmos, and through the Terror of His Infinite Power keep the Future within the bosom of the Law.

And yet, there was a vital problem: “God is Love.” The Creator wants to live among His children as a Father, not as a despicable Tyrant. If He granted amnesty to the Rebel, sooner or later the Tragedy would repeat itself.

Love for justice must not prevail over the Law of Love for the family when Love for the Law has been trampled upon.

To grant amnesty to the fratricide is to bless a new fratricide in the future. Continuing down this path, the chain of civil wars among brothers would kindle within the Creator the Fire of His Spirit of Justice, ultimately reducing to dust everything that He created from dust.

And God accepted the war against His Law.

A murderous serpent, originally a son of God, named Satan, challenged God to prevent him from destroying all life on Earth. How could He—for whose love all things were created—fail to bring the Sword of Victory!

Indeed, the two gates of the Future opened before the Son's eyes. Jesus could have passed through the Gate of Peace with the Traitor; in that way, he would have avoided his Cross and the Genocide against the Christians, and under his Banner, the End of the Ancient World would not have led to the beginning of the Medieval World.

Satan and Jesus would have returned to their World—Bread there and Peace here. But what would become of our world the Day After?

The other door that God opened for His Son was the Abolition of His Empire and the Creation of a Single Universal Kingdom, whose Crown would be worn by God Himself: Eternal Universal King—All Glory, all Power in His hands, Head of the Divine State.

Would God the Son kneel before God the Father in the presence of the entire House of YAHWEH GOD, brothers, and children?

Cross or Amnesty? Sword or Peace?

Peace for today, War for tomorrow.

The decision was His. The future of the entire Creation was placed in the hands of Jesus Christ, the One through whom we were all created.

The answer has been on the lips of the Holy Mother Church for 2,000 years.

Thus, leaving the controversy to those whose prototype is Satan, and whose inheritance is lies, what sword did the King speak of when He said, "I have come to bring a sword"?

Certainly not an iron sword. Had it been so, He would have declared war on the Roman Empire. Almighty as He was, Jerusalem would have surrendered at His feet, and Rome would have fallen to its knees before His Crown.

The decision to ascend the Cross revealed to us all the nature of the Sword He holds in His Mouth: It is the Sword of Justice

The Ancient One became History. From that moment on, the great question arose: When would that Sword be unsheathed and raised in open war against the Enemy of God and of Man?

For we know that God said to the King: "Sit at My right hand until I put your enemies under your feet."

But we know more. God gave Christ a Bride on Earth, and to the Fruit of this everlasting Marriage He gave Victory as an inheritance: "Your Offspring will take possession of the gates of their enemies." And this, even while this Offspring was in his Mother's womb, just as Christ was in the womb of Eve. Could Death, the Devil, and the World prevent the Birth of the Son of Man? Behold, then, why—knowing the Infinite Power of God— the Holy Spirit wrote concerning the Offspring of Jesus Christ:

"The entire creation awaits with bated breath the Day of the glory of the Freedom of the children of God."

The conclusion is clear. Christians of all nations: We are at war, not because we declared it, not because we sought it, but because the right to life and the duty to defend it are sacred. Christ died so that his descendants might live. Before we were even born, war had already been declared on our world. The ultimate reality is this: The Enemy of God and of Man is marching his armies toward the destruction of our civilization.

Do not believe those who say there will be a New World Order. Satan is the son of Death, and his Mother has but one goal: to destroy all life created by God.

The King stands firm. The Sword of Victory is in the Hand of the King of Heaven and Lord of the Earth. The Final Battle of the War that began approximately 5,786 years ago has begun and is drawing to a close: the Conversion of the Fullness of the Nations to the Kingdom of God the Son.

Christians of the whole Earth, the war against our King and Father has never ceased!

The persecutions and massacres against Christians are a bloody reality to which the UN has turned a blind eye; the governments enslaved by the 2030 Agenda bless with their silence the terror of Islam against the Christian peoples of Nigeria, Sudan, Congo...

In Africa and Asia, 300 million Christians suffer persecution and death. The cry of the innocents has reached Heaven. God the Father's decree: "Let no place be found for Satan on Earth," lives on in the King's Son.

The Sword of Justice has once again been unsheathed. The Offspring of the Lord has been born; the Day of glory and freedom for the children of God has dawned. Blessed be YAHWEH GOD THE FATHER!

Remember His judgment: "The cowards, the unfaithful, the abominable, the murderers, the fornicators, the sorcerers, the idolaters, and all liars will have their part in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death."

Whoever does not love God should fear for his life. "For the Son does what He sees the Father doing," and since God has judged the Ancient World, the counsel of those who have the Spirit of Wisdom is that you not continue to do evil in the belief that by saying "Lord, Lord" you will be absolved of your crimes.

In Love is Life; in Terror is Death. Whoever loves Terror will be judged by his Terror, for each person is judged by his deeds according to the nature of his crimes.

He who hates his neighbor will be judged by his hatred; for whoever does not love his neighbor here on Earth, how will he love him in eternal life!

Hatred toward God's Creation is abominable to Him, how much more so Hatred toward His children.

Power belongs exclusively to the King: JESUS CHRIST. The government of nations has been established to serve the people, never to turn its institution into a stepping stone toward dictatorship.

Every nation is like a large estate that its owner governs through an administration. Corruption begins when this administrator uses his master's assets to ruin him and drive him into bankruptcy.

The thief who has plundered his master has two paths before him: to abandon ship and enjoy the stolen gold in exile, or to plunge the nation into civil war in the hope of seizing power as the "Good Dictator."
